JUDGE DECLARES THAW INSANE

Remarkable Analysis of Whole Thaw Case Presented by Justice Mills in Remanding Slayer of White to Criminal Insane Asylum.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Aug. 12.—Harry K. Thaw was to-day adjudged insane by Justice Mills in a decision handed down in the Supreme Court, and ordered to be sent back to the Matteawan State Asylum for the Criminal Insane immediately.

The order of Justice Mills was turned over to the Westchester authorities by the clerk of the Supreme Court, and Thaw himself, in the jail at White Plains, was informed of the decision. Arrangements were made to take him back to Matteawan to-morrow.

Justice Mills in his decision finds that Thaw is insane and unable to properly care for himself. The decision contains 8,000 words and thoroughly covers the insanity hearing time has just been completed before Justice Mills.

Thaw Overcome in Cell.

Thaw awaited the decision in his cell in the jail at White Plains. He was plainly nervous and paced up and down, almost unnerved. Arrangements had been made to let him know the decision as soon as it was announced by the clerk of the court. When he learned his fate Thaw stopped in his nervous walk up and down the cell and stood stock still. He did not seem to comprehend what had been told him. Then he realized that he must go back to Matteawan he staggered backward and fell upon the cell cot. He covered his face with his hands and for a time could not be aroused.

Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw, the prisoner's mother, and his sister, the former Countess of Yarmouth, were almost overcome at the news. Alice Thaw tried to comfort her mother, but the aged woman, who has battled so long and so unflinchingly for her son, showed plainly that the decision was a terrible blow to her.

Immediately after the decision of Justice Mills had been filed with the county clerk he informed counsel for Thaw that at the chambers in Mt. Vernon to-morrow he would listen to argument on the part of the Thaw lawyers as to why the patient should be committed to some State institution other than Matteawan.

Mr. Morschauser at once informed the court that he would appear before him to-morrow and argue the matter, stating that, although Justice Mills' decision ordered Thaw back to Matteawan, he believed that he should be confined to some other institution than the one in which he has been confined for the past year.

Justice Mills's decision was the strongest

WOMAN DYING, MAN ALSO FOUND WITH SLASH IN THROAT

Her throat cut from ear to ear by a terrible razor slash, Mrs. Ella Aipher, twenty-three years old, a pretty vaudeville actress, is dying at the City Hospital, where she was taken early to-day. Wallie James O'Donnell, her stage partner, was questioned by the police, himself the victim of a cut in the neck that made a wound six inches long.

O'Donnell told the police that the young woman attacked him while he lay in bed and then ran from the room and staggered back a moment later with the wound in her throat.

After Captains Dugan and Hanley had talked to O'Donnell they went to Westminster street and interviewed the mother and sisters of Mrs. Aipher. The relatives of the young woman said that she had been suffering from nervous prostration since May 13, when she was last able to appear on the stage.

At that time she and O'Donnell, under the names of West and Harper, did a black and white face turn at the Old South vaudeville house on Washington street. Since that time O'Donnell has been working alone. He was booked to appear to-night in Somerville.

When they had learned these facts it was decided to let O'Donnell go and he was given his freedom.

The reason for what was apparently an attempted murder and suicide, the police have as yet been unable to ascertain. In their search of the rooms that the man and woman occupied, separately, at the home of Mrs. Aipher's sister, at No. 55 Westminster street, Roxbury, the police found the blade of a safety razor that bore evidence of having been used recently for shaving, but that had no spots on it to show that it had been utilized for throat cutting.

O'Donnell Gives Version.

Mrs. Aipher and her husband, Emil, have been living apart for some months. The husband is employed with his father at No. 20 Vesper street, Roxbury. Mrs. Aipher went to live with her mother, Mrs. Annie Finn. She and O'Donnell, who is thirty-two years of age, had been singing in moving picture theatres in Boston and elsewhere for several months.

Whether or not these had been any trouble between the couple could not be learned at the house to-day. The only facts that bore directly on the slashing were obtained from O'Donnell, because the woman was unconscious when the first policeman reached the house.

This is the story that O'Donnell told the police as he talked with difficulty at Station 10, after he had been treated at the City Hospital:

"I was asleep in my room about 6:30 when I was awakened by some one coming up to my bed and touching me on the face. I opened my eyes and it was broad daylight. Mrs. Aipher stood beside me. She did not say a word. She leaned over and with a great slash cut me in the neck. Then she ran from the room.

Brother Discovers Tragedy.

"She had only been out of the room a moment when she returned. I was bleeding and thought I was dying. I saw that she had been taken by the policemen below. She staggered, moaned, and dropped to the floor.

"I could do nothing for her and I got some towels and tied them about my neck to try to stop the flow of blood. I was so weak and terrified that I could do nothing.

"The woman cut me and must have cut herself with the blade of a safety razor," George Finn, eight years of age, a brother of Mrs. Aipher, was awakened by the excitement and with one glance into the room where his sister lay on the floor and the man reclining on the bed, he dashed into the street and found Policeman Pett. When the officer got into the room Mrs. Aipher was on the floor unconscious and O'Donnell was on the bed with his throat bandaged with a towel.

An ambulance was procured and the couple hurried to the City Hospital. O'Donnell was treated in the out-patient department and then taken by the policemen to Station 10, where he was questioned by the officers, who had hastily summoned Captain Dugan of police headquarters.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 12.—It has been drizzling here this morning, but at noon had stopped and the sun is trying to break through the clouds. The local grounds are very hard and it will require a downpour to prevent a game.

Manager Cantillon says he won't call off the battle until the last minute and the locals have had their fill of double-headers.

The Washington fans are very much awake to-day over the trade of Delehanty for Schaefer and Killifer, and that the two first named are to exchange positions this afternoon will probably draw out a great crowd.

The spitball artist Oberlin probably will work against knuckle ball Summers, but everything may be switched at the last minute. Donovan has been reinstated and he may possibly work, as Jennings is anxious to win out here, and should "Wild Bill" go the mound Cantillon may switch to Walter Johnson.

George Browne is out of the game with a wrenched ankle, which throws Unglaub into right and Donahue to first. Bauken ship is also on the injured list, but Kahoe demonstrated yesterday that he can easily hold up his end of the game.

IN JUSTICE TO MISS MAY McKENZIE

Statements were sent out from White Plains during the sanity proceedings in the Thaw case to the effect that Miss May McKenzie, the actress, was a victim of Stanford White. Miss McKenzie wishes to the AMERICAN to say that this is not true. No such statement concerning her was made in court. The AMERICAN gladly gives publicity to this correction, and to express the regret than any such construction was put upon the articles published in this newspaper.

WORCESTER LIVING MAN PETRIFYING

WORCESTER, Aug. 12.—In the thrall of the physicians who are studying his condition, John Mastriel'ucci, who was picked up in a stupor on Millbury street and taken to the Worcester Hospital, is gradually turning to stone, despite all their medical knowledge can do for him. The case baffles diagnosis. Mastriel'ucci has not spoken nor taken nourishment since he was taken to the hospital, and as far as can be determined he has no sense of feeling, nor does he appear to be conscious of his surroundings. Dr. John H. Woodman, who has the case in charge, believes that it is a case of what is known in the medical fraternity as "Dementia fracox."

FREED OF CHARGE OF CUSTOMS FRAUD

On a motion of United States District Attorney French, Commissioner Hayes to-day discharged John J. Pitrell, charged with defrauding the government of more than $5,000 by making false entries of imported goods. Pitrell is a customs broker at No. 131 State street. He was arrested last April.

HUNTINGTON AVENUE GROUNDS, Aug. 12.—The second "Cy Young Day" of the season in Boston was a great success. It was held this afternoon, when the Naps and Red Sox got in the second game of their series.

Good and early the fans poured into the park, and before the game was started the stands had been taxed to their fullest capacity, and the part of the field which was decorated with ropes had been all filled.

The bugs yelled themselves hoarse for Cy Young, but, nevertheless, they didn't want him to get away with the game, for they were anxious to see the Red Sox continue their long string of victories. Every time Cy threw a ball and did anything out of the ordinary there was a wild cheer from the bleachertites. They certainly have a warm spot in their hearts for the big ex-Red Sox pitcher.

The Boston team got off flying in the series by winning yesterday, but Nap Lajoie was confident that with an even break to luck his team will take the remainder of the games of the series.

Manager Lake sent his men into the game full of ginger and determined to make it seven straight victories. The long run of good fortune that has attended the Red Sox has brought them up near the top of the ladder and Lake doesn't figure on losing many points just at present.

KLING PASSED UP BY EBBETTS

HANNIBAL, Mo., Aug. 12.—The deal for Johnny Kling to manage Brooklyn is off. President Ebbetts wired C. Webb Murphy to that effect to-day.

"I'll go along with Lumley," said Ebbetts, "and this is why I offered Murphy four players and $10,000 each besides. I also offered him $15,000 cash and would have given $20,000. Murphy would listen to nothing but Lumley, George Bell and Catcher Erwin of Rochester, whom I have bought.

"I thought this proposition over and have now decided to let Kling go by the board."

TRUANT PARENTS ARE SENTENCED

Irene Comerford and John A. Doubleday of Charlestown were sent to six months in the House of Correction in Charlestown District Court to-day for a statutory offence. He and Irene Comerford have been living in Charlestown for eight years.

TEN SOLDIERS HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENT

SALISBURY, Eng., Aug. 12.—Ten soldiers were injured to-day, several, it is feared, fatally, when an automobile beyond control crashed through the ranks of a regiment of infantry returning from the manoeuvres. It was first reported that seven had been killed and twenty injured.

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 12.—The Boston Doves, who arrived here at an early hour this morning from the camp of the Pirates, lined up with the Cincinnati Reds this afternoon for two games. The first contest was started at 2 o'clock.

The Bostonians aren't much of an attraction in the Reds' camp, so there wasn't much of a crowd at the park. The Reds haven't been going any too well, and that also helped to keep down the attendance. The weather was fine for the two games, and play was snappy.

The Doves are anxious to get away from that "one game won" on their trip, and Manager Marry Smith sent his men into the fray full of ginger. They have lost many contests by one run margins, and this shows that they have not been playing any poorer article of baseball.

The series at Pittsburg was exceptionally hard and then having to play two games here this afternoon when the Doves aren't in a very good condition does not conduce to a good contest.

Manager Smith announced that he had given walking papers to young "Boy" Siner, the young second sacker secured some time ago from the Three I League. Siner was good in the field, but his stick work evidently didn't suit the Dove manager.

AERIAL MACHINE FLIES LIKE EAGLE

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 12.—Professor H. L. Twining, head of the department of physics and electrical engineering in the Los Angeles Polytechnic High School, began aerial experiments to-day with an "ornithopter," a flying machine with twenty-seven-foot wings, designed to operate like those of an eagle. Professor Twining believes something like flight for twenty years and feels confident his ornithopter will demonstrate the correctness of the principles he has evolved. The flying machine has no motor, instead Professor Twining relies on a system of levers to be operated with hands and feet.

HEAD OF PARKS BEFORE THE BOARD

The Finance Commission continued its investigation of the city departments to-day and D. Henry Sullivan of the public grounds department and John A. Pettigrew superintendent of parks, were on the rack. The purpose is to determine how many of the recommendations of the old commission have been carried out. Later the board will report to the Mayor.

NAPHTHA EXPLOSION JARS 200 WORKERS

LYNN, Aug. 12.—The shoe factory district was startled and Victor Lelliane was blown twelve feet by the explosion of a can of naphtha in Lelliane's drybouse in the basement of the factory at No. 207 Market street to-day. Lelliane was cleaning a suit when, from some unknown cause, the explosion came. He was burned but refused to go to a hospital. The flaming naphtha started a fire in the basement which did $200 damage. Two hundred men and women employes on upper floors of the building felt the shock of the explosion.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Aug. 12.—The unlooked for outcome of yesterday's contests in the battle now being waged for American league supremacy, by which seventeen points now separate the three leading teams, only served to infuse more interest than would otherwise have been the case in the second game of the series between the St. Louis Browns and the Athletics at Shibe Park this afternoon.

There was no mistaking the smile on Jim McAleer's face as he watched the Browns in practice. Connie Mack said he was simply tired right for twenty years and feels confident his ornithopter will demonstrate the correctness of the principles he has evolved. The flying machine has no motor, instead Professor Twining relies on a system of levers to be operated with hands and feet.

McAleer will send in either Waddell or Graham as his twirler.

The weather, although warm, was fair from clear, and a break was looked for.

WILL AUCTION OFF OLD ENTERPRISE

The old United States ship Enterprise, which is now at the Charlestown Navy Yard, is to be sold at public auction to the highest bidder, orders to that effect having been received to-day. The vessel has been out of commission for three months, being previously used as a training ship for boys. She was launched in 1874 and is of the wooden variety. In 1902 John D. Long, then Secretary of the Navy, turned her over to this State. Only three wooden war vessels now remain in the service of the government, the Constitution, Hartford and Wabash.

FIRE-TRAPPED FAMILY SAVED BY BLANKETS

WALTHAM, Aug. 12.—Escape cut off, the first floor of their house being a raging furnace, E. F. Howard, his wife, Fred Howard, a brother, and William Walsh, a thirteen-year-old hired boy, all made their escape early to-day through an open second-story window and down a rope made of blankets to the ground.

The four had not a moment to lose, for the house burned like tinder and was soon a mass of smouldering wreckage.

The Howards lived at No. 1,505 Main street in the western suburbs. Howard is Stone, who lives in a house just adjoining, owns the property.

It was at 3:30 a. m. when Mrs. Howard was aroused by the stifling smoke. She awakened her husband and then roused Fred Howard and the boy. The hall was so full of flame and smoke that it was seen at once that escape by that means was impossible.

Howard and his brother tore the blankets off the beds and hurriedly twisted and knotted them into a rope which would reach to the ground.

Young Walsh was lowered quickly to the ground and he sped to the Stone residence, where an alarm was sent in by telephone to the fire department.

Mrs. Howard in the meantime was lowered to the ground. Then, tying the rope of blankets to a bedpost, Howard saw that his brother got to earth safely and next let himself down, hand over hand.

When the firemen came they were handicapped by lack of water. The nearest hydrant was a quarter of a mile distant, but they laid a hose to the burning house. It was impossible to save it, however, by that time. After the hardest kind of a fight, to save the barn and the home of Mr. Stone.

COMISKEY REFUSES TO HOLD FORFEITS

CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—Charles A. Comiskey, who has been selected to act as stakeholder of the $10,000 posted by Jeffries and Johnson, has declined. He said to-day that he has enough business of his own to attend to without looking after other affairs and he further stated that he does not fully understand the dealings with forfeits and it will be up to the fighters to accept some other stakeholder.

MRS. TARBOX SUES ELOPER FOR DIVORCE

Mrs. Bernard L. Tarbox, wife of the young coal merchant who eloped with his stenographer, Gertrude Barnes, has sued for divorce. Papers in her action were filed to-day in the Superior Court of Middlesex County by Attorney Walter A. Ladd. She asks the court to allow her to resume her maiden name of Blaiche P. Matthews, but no mention of alimony is made in the suits.

Mrs. Tarbox names Miss Devine in accusing her of unfaithfulness. She says she has always been a good wife to the young coal merchant, whom she married on Nov. 25, 1908. She says Newton was her last residence in Massachusetts, where she and Tarbox lived. It is understood that she is now in Rhode Island.

In the divorce papers Tarbox is described as being "over forty years unknown."

Papers were filed on August 2 in a suit against Tarbox for $25,000 damages, in behalf of William P. Devine, the father of Miss Devine. Previous to that action the property of Tarbox had been attached by Devine. The girl's father accused Tarbox of enticing the girl from home. She is nineteen years old and very pretty.

Tarbox is twenty-six and the scion of a wealthy family. He and Miss Devine were married in Woonsocket, R. I., after which the girl's father asked for the arrest of Tarbox for kidnap.

After leaving Rhode Island Tarbox and Miss Devine journeyed in his automobile through New York to Canada.

INCENDIARY IN CHELSEA SETS 2 MORE FIRES

While the Chelsea police and State Officer Silas Smith were searching to-day for the mysterious firebug who has tried to burn the Standard Oil storage buildings on Eastern avenue in that city, two more apparently incendiary fires were started. The officials are now working on all three attempts.

At 10:30 to-day a fire was discovered in a pile of rubbish between Mrs. Ella Gould's house, at No. 6 Cabot street, and Mrs. Catherine McQueeney's restaurant, next door. The fire did $75 damage to the outside walls of the buildings.

At 11:30 the Chelsea department responded to a fire at the Gem Manufacturing Company's tinware factory at No. 95 Beach street, Everett, just over the Chelsea line. Papers and excelsior had been stuffed under the floor of the factory and then fighted. The under part of the building received $50 damage.

The second attempt of last night was more desperate than those of to-day. The firebug was seen by Watchman Fred Harvey, who lives near the factory, who fired three shots in an ineffectual effort to bring down the man.

Harvey saw a blazing pile of waste paper and rags, soaked with kerosene, in the doorway of one of the warehouses and beat out the flames before they gained headway. Just then he saw a man dart away from another part of the building. The man disappeared down Vale street into the darkness, while Harvey was pursuing lead after him.

Harvey described the firebug as short and stocky and wearing a black cap and dark suit.

YACHTS ALL SAFE AFTER STORMY TRIP

PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 12.—All of the yachts of the New York Club have been accounted for. After the stormiest cruise in the history of the crack organization every boat of the big fleet which left New York Tuesday morning is either in harbor here or has reported from some other port.

The Winsome and Sea Fox, which for hours were thought to have been lost in the gale of Tuesday night or driven far out to sea, came into the harbor here today under tow. Everybody was safe aboard and delighted to see land, for the run had been the hardest ever known by the yachtsmen and their crews.

The yawl Vigilant, formerly the old sloop cup defender, had the hardest battle of the whole fleet with wind and wave. She got into port after having battered her way along the whole course under her own sail or what there was left of it. The gallant old defender anchored in Peak's Island roads and was towed in here today.

Battled With Storm.

William E. Iselin, her owner, and her sailing master, Captain Oliver B. Masten, said that when off the Handkerchief Shoals the iron bolt holding the peak halyard block to the mainmast was snapped and the gear came crashing down. Quick work was necessary, as the sea was high. The mainsail was at once taken in.

While twenty miles east of Cape Cod the crew met the storm tryail. The wind kept freshening all night long and kicked up a nasty sea.

At 2 o'clock yesterday morning, as the Vigilant was standing off Thatcher's Island, heading toward Portsmouth, the big jibsail was split and the craft was forced to run back several miles in the eastward of the Isle of Shoals. From there she came the rest of the way to Peek's Island Roads under riding sails.

The Vigilant won the race of the special class for yawls. The Tuscrnina won the Class R race and the Commodore's cup for large schooners. The Sea Fox was the winner in the special class for schooners. The Aurora won the Class K race and the Commodore's cup for large sloops. She is Cornelius Vanderbilt's racer.

Here is the official time of the winners:

Tuscrnina—Elapsed time, 42:04:16; allowance, 3:52:37; corrected time, 38:11:39.

Elmina—Elapsed time, 42:36:38; allowance, 3:52:43; corrected time, 38:43:55.

Sea Fox—Elapsed time, 41:42:03; allowance, 3:19:18; corrected time, 38:22:45.

Aurora—Elapsed time, 36:14:21; allowance, 3:19:18; corrected time, 32:54:59.

Vigilant—Elapsed time, 36:54:29; allowance, 3:24:33; corrected time, 33:47:57.

Commodore James Gordon Bennett this afternoon aboard the flagship Aloha, to the owners and guests of the yacht's competing in these races. The fleet will start on the next leg of its cruise to-morrow. The yachtsmen are all so busy after their hard voyage and so many repairs have to be made that a start to-day is impossible. The next run is to Rockland. Most of the boats will come here, but several may run from the ports where they are to-day direct to Rockland, even to Bar Harbor.

This afternoon the annual race for the Dyer and Hammond colors is being run. This is for gigs only.

ARREST ACTON MAN IN HEINZE PLOT INQUIRY

Charles H. Roberts of Acton left Boston to-day in the custody of Detective Fitzsimmons of New York, having been arrested at his home in connection with the alleged plot to swindle F. Augustus Heinze, the copper man, out of a fortune in securities.

Under $50,000 bail, Donald L. Perach, a Harvard graduate, is under arrest in New York on the charge of having obtained $110,000 worth of copper stock on a loan of $50,000, which he disposed of at a profit of $14,000, $34,000 of which he kept.

Perach was released from the Tombs this noon, but in a few minutes was rearrested on charge of larceny, made by M. M. Joyce.

Other arrests are to be made, according to inside wire dispatches from New York, and among them a man who is said to be prominent in Wall street. The Grand Jury took up the investigation of the stock mystery to-day. It is claimed that fully $300,000 of stocks obtained in a similar way to those secured by Perach have been sold on the Boston curb.

The case of A. D. F. Adams, a Boston broker, has been mentioned in connection with the case. Adams to-day gave out this statement to a reporter for the AMERICAN:

"I know nothing whatever of this Heinze case except what I have read in the newspapers. I have no idea how my name could have been brought up in connection with it. I have had nothing to do with this transaction. All business with clients I hold strictly confidential. I doubt if there are any brokers in Boston or New York who have not done business with Mr. Heinze or his associates. But I have done no business for Mr. Heinze or his associates through Mr. Perach. I also want to say that I do not know any Warfield."

ASKS INJUNCTION TO PREVENT SALE OF OIL SHARES

Following the sensational stories from New York to the effect that Boston stock brokers had been robbed of thousands of dollars through stock schemes, an interesting case was argued before Judge Dana in the Superior Court to-day in which some of the parties to the New York scandal are implicated.

Joseph M. Everett is seeking an injunction against Edwin F. Draper, Walter Allhouse of Cambridge and Field & Fay, the Congress street brokers, for the purpose of restraining Field & Fay from selling or disposing of whatever portion of 22,000 shares of Eclipse Oil stock they may be in their possession.

Everett says that on July 26 he executed a note for $1,500 payable four months from date to his own order and pledged 22,000 shares of Eclipse Oil to Myer Berman as security.

It is alleged that Berman disposed of the note and stock to Draper, who sold the stock through Field & Fay. Field & Fay, the brokers, claim they received the stock as broken upon an order to sell in the usual course of business, and advanced a considerable sum of money upon it as stock. They declare they had no knowledge or notice of any transactions between Everett and Berman by which any claim was asserted on the certificates. Judge Dana took the case under advisement.

TO-DAY'S CABLE NEWS

Up to Midnight, London Time

Dogs and Sheep on French Target Ship.

TOULON—Minister of Marine Admiral de la Payrere is greatly satisfied with the results of the gunnery trials being conducted by the armored cruiser Conde with the battleship Iena, which was badly damaged by an explosion in 1907, as a target. The experiments will be continued until September 15 on an elaborate scale. The aim of the Conde will be directed against the forward part of the Iena, which has been adequately prepared to prevent sinking.

Experiments will include the placing of sheep in the line of fire in order to ascertain the effect of a shot reaching the magazines, and the effect of exploding shells on the guns of the Iena and the men operating them. The crew will be represented by dummies. Living dogs, sheep and mice will be placed on board the Iena in cages to demonstrate the consequences of the deleterious gases emitted by the explosion of the projectiles.

Yankee Girl a Song Wonder.

PARIS—One of the young American students of opera whose beauty, grace and splendidly developed voice for over half her years are attracting attention to her is Miss Kathleen Lockhart, eighteen years old, the daughter of Ollo Lockhart of Los Angeles, Cal. Miss Lockhart is a beauty of the type of Lillian Russell, whom she greatly resembles. She has a pure soprano voice of wide range and great sweetness. She has proven an apt pupil, and her repertory includes the leading roles in German, French and Italian opera.

To Entertain Mrs. Roosevelt

BOARD INVESTIGATES FATAL TUG WRECK

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Aug. 12.—The naval board of inquiry appointed to investigate the wreck of the tug Nezinscott and the drowning of four persons met this afternoon at the navy yard and listened to the stories of survivors. The court will wait to hear the testimony of Captain Brass before it makes its report. He is in Lanesville, near Gloucester, recovering from the ordeal. It is charged by some that the tug was improperly loaded.

VAN SANT HAS LONG LEAD IN G. A. R. RACE

SALT LAKE CITY, Aug. 12—The attention of the delegates of the forty-third annual national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic was centered on the election of a new commander-in-chief to-day. The campaigners for S. R. Van Sant made their claims so strong that in some quarters his election was conceded before the balloting began.

W. K. Ketcham of Indianapolis, the other candidate, gained considerable strength at the last minute, but the Van Sant contingent still claimed everything in sight at the opening of the session.

The convention proper of the Ladies of the G. A. R. opened this morning with a business session. The business session of the Army Nurses was also held to-day.

At the session of the Women's Relief Corps reports of the officers were read.

A public banquet will be tendered this evening to Governor Spry and other distinguished guests by the Army Nurses in the parlors of the Commercial Club.

700 FEDERAL CLERKS QUIZZED

The 700 employes of the custom house and sub-treasury to-day received blank forms from Secretary of the Treasury MacVeagh for the purpose of making a statistical record of the efficiency of the department. The forms contain about forty questions relating to the individual's physical condition, length of service, salary, disposition, efficiency, etc. One blank is to be filled out by the employe, the other by the head of the division. Some of the questions asked are:

"Would the service be improved if this employe were retired on a civil pension? If so, why?"

"Is this employe extravagant in the use of government supplies or careless in expenditures?"

"Is he fully earning his salary?"

"Does he observe the rules and letter of executive order of January 25, 1906?"

This order is the one issued by President Roosevelt forbidding government employes from seeking an increase in salary or promotion through political influence.

NEW QUINCY SCHOOL HEAD.

At a special meeting of the Quincy School Committee Albert L. Barbour, Superintendent of Schools at Natick, was unanimously elected Superintendent of Schools to succeed Frank E. Parris, who goes to Cambridge.

HOT DOG MEN BAY AT BOARD

The "hot dog" men, or vendors of frankfurters, descended on the office of the street commissioners to-day and made a mighty howl against the latest mandate of the board.

The commissioners have decreed that the men can no longer sell hot buttered ears of corn. During the past two years the men who cart around the stove and basket have added corn on the ear to the menu served to those desiring a quick lunch on the street. Complaint has been made to the board that patrons are accustomed to throw the ears into the street, and for this reason orders have been issued to the sandwich men not to sell corn any more.

Street Commissioner Gallivan took the complaints under advisement.

GUILD ADDRESS AT VIENNA POSTPONED

Former Governor Guild has written home from abroad that he is not to deliver the address which he had been invited to do at the proposed unveiling of the memorial to Michael Servetus at Vienna on Aug. 14. He has received a letter stating that the artist who was to make the bust is ill and by that time, causing postponement for a year. Mr. Guild has been invited to make the address then.

marching to Boston. Each night the umpires will meet at General Wood's headquarters and decide which side has won the day's "battles."

The Blue army of defence started a rest camp of soldiers and sailors. The bulk of this army of citizen soldiers starts actually on the march Saturday.

Thirty-Mile Battle Line.

The battle line of the Blues will be stretched thirty miles across country, the Attleboros to Plymouth, ready to repel the Red army. From their armories in the State the Massachusetts soldiers will march to the scene of war, and when Sunday morning comes the two armies will be near each other in the field.

The armories were the busy places in Boston and other Massachusetts cities today. The staff officers who are responsible for equipping, feeding, arming and clothing the soldiers had their men at work packing boxes, getting tents ready for the army wagon trains, and attending to the many details of furnishing a living to soldiers while they are fighting. It is this side of the war games that is vastly important, and each army will be judged on the way it takes care of its soldiers in the field.

Troops Are Comihg From District of Columbia to Attack Coast Defence of Bay State

The Japanese and the German armies are among the best in the world in the handling of this side of military warfare.

The naval end of the war game will be comparatively minor, though spectacular. The sixteen army transports which bring over the Red army to our coast will engage the coast fortifications when ordered.

Taft Will Not Look On.

Lieutenant Colonel Adelbert Cronkhite, Coast Artillery Corps, Department of the East, will be in charge of operations of the naval operations and will have as his chief assistant Major A. M. Hunter, U. S. A.

The foreign military attaches who will be on the ground viewing the war game include Colonel Baron De Bode, of the general staff of the Russian army; Major Davila, general staff of the Mexican army; Captain Count De Chambrun, general staff of the French army; and Captain Gilbert Fryer, of the Royal British engineers. These attaches will be in charge of Captain William S. Guignard of the Second Field Artillery, who was selected recently as United States military attache to Paris.

President Taft will take part in the war game. He will hear about it from his military visitors. He would like to see the games, but he cannot look on them as commander-in-chief, and this means a lot of salutes and reviews and parades, which he wishes to avoid.

If the grand review of the 20,000 men of both armies is held in Boston after the manoeuvres, President Taft, as commander-in-chief, will probably be the reviewing officer. The probable date, if held, is August 21.

Among the most important features will be the use of the wireless telegraph, war balloons and other mechanical and electrical devices never yet employed in actual first real test in hostilities. The games will show twentieth century warfare at its best.

Preceded by an army train of sixteen mule teams, the Tenth United States Colored Cavalry, under command of Major Charles H. Grierson, passed through Taunton at 10:30 a. m. on route for Freetown. Major Grierson stopped only to breathe the horses. He stated the command would encamp between Taunton and New Bedford and was due in New Bedford to-morrow morning. The soldiers were in fine condition and the city turned out to greet them.

MAN KILLED BY TROOPS IN STRIKE RIOT

PITTSBURG, Aug. 12.—A striker was killed at McKee's Rocks early to-day when the 7,000 striking workmen of the Pressed Steel Car Company threw stones at cars standing their ground under several volleys which were fired over their heads by State militiamen, and hurling rocks at the soldiers in return.

Some of the troopers aimed too low and three others were hit by bricks, which their missiles laid more than one soldier low.

The strikers took complete possession of the street car lines in the vicinity, allowing none but those of their own number to ride, and paying no fares. The State soldiers were repulsed several times in the night, but finally succeeded in dispersing the strikers for the time.

Besides those who were wounded by bullets and other missiles, scores were clubbed by the troopers as they rode through the crowd at a gallop. Twenty more were arrested and marched in a hollow square of mounted troopers to the car barns inside the stockades around the works, where they are now held.

The strikers reformed immediately after they broke before the first terrific charge of the cavalry, and marched through the streets carrying red flags and shouting hundreds of recruits, who, it is feared, will join them in another and more determined attack.

Liquor, it is said, is being freely dispensed, and the mood of the strikers and their adherents is becoming more threatening every hour. At the plant preparations are under way to withstand another attack and, further fighting is expected. The crisis of the day will come when the company attempts to carry out its threat to refill the positions of 50 of the strikers from houses belonging to the company in the sheriff has enlisted a heavy force of deputies to aid in the dispossession proceedings and a strong force of the mounted police troopers will be on hand. The men have sworn they will not permit their families to be put on the streets and the whole force of strikers is behind them in their determination.

The heavy foreign element of the population is frenzied over the fighting. The women are urging the men on and talk is heard of using dynamite against the guns of the soldiers. The influence of the more conservative of the strike leaders is set at naught to-day and they have ears only for those who advocate desperate measures.

SENATORS TO QUIT CAPITAL FOR READING

READING, Pa., Aug. 12.—Contracts were forwarded to Washington to-day by Will ham Abbott Wilmsn for the signature of Manager Cantillon of the Washington American League club that will call a meeting one month of American League baseball.

This state of affairs has been brought about by the sale to the government of the Washington grounds, necessitating the securing of a new baseball park.

Mr. Wilmsn's contract leases his new ball park, one of the finest in the country, with a seating capacity of about 8,000, to the Washington club upon most advantageous terms for the winding up of the American League season of 1909.

To accomplish this the selling the club to Reading it was necessary to suspend the clause on baseball law that prohibits the playing of a major league club in a city having less than 100,000 population.

The Tri-State League season closes here on Labor Day, and on the following day the Washington club will be transferred to Reading, opening here with Boston September 7, 8 and 9; with New York, 10, 11 and 12; with Philadelphia, 13, 14, 15 and 20; with Detroit, 21, 22 and 23; with Chicago, 24, 25, 27 and 28, and with Cleveland, 29 and 30 and October 1.

WILL NOT BE CHIEF.

CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—John E. Wilkie, chief of the Federal Secret Service Bureau, has declined to accept the office of chief of police of Chicago.

FULL TEXT OF JUDGE MILLS'S RULING IN THE THAW CAS

Court Declares Insanity Trace Lingers in Prisoner's Family, and Believes His Liberty Would Be a Menace to Public Safety.

against Thaw that has been handed down by any judge since the two trials of the prisoner. His decision can be summed up as follows:

That the insanity with which Harry K. Thaw was afflicted in June, 1906, the date of the shooting of Stanford White, was a chronic, delusive insanity, generally known as paranoia.

That Harry K. Thaw has not yet recovered and that paranoia recovery is very doubtful.

That the enlargement of Harry K. Thaw now would be a danger to the public peace and safety.

In his decision, Justice Mills said that he based his belief that Thaw had paranoia on a substantial trace of insanity in Thaw's ancestors. He quoted the letter that Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw wrote to Professor Boyd from a delusion."

Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw, the one pathetic figure in the celebrated lunacy case, mother of Harry K. Thaw, who has expended nearly all of her vast fortune to obtain liberty for her son.

INSANITY RULING IN FAMOUS CASE

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Aug. 12—The following is the decision in full of Justice Mills in ordering Harry Thaw back to the Matteawan asylum:

This is a proceeding by writ of habeas corpus to secure this discharge of Harry K. Thaw from the Matteawan State hospital to which he was committed by Mr. Justice Dowling on Feb. 1, 1908, upon the rendition of the verdict acquitting him upon the ground of insanity of murder in the first degree, in Bullding on the 25th of June, 1906, killed Stanford White in the city of New York.

The history of the Thaw case prior to this proceeding is notorious and need not be here recited.

The return filed by the defendant pleads as the ground of Thaw's detention, said commitment by Justice Dowling, and alleges: "That the said Harry K. Thaw is now of unsound mind and that he could not now be released from custody without danger to the public peace and safety."

When produced upon the return the prisoner presented to the court his answer, duly verified by him, wherein he denied the allegation in the return as to his present insanity, and affirmed that it was at the same time of the issuing of the writ herein "he was sane and of sound mind."

"Never Tried for Sanity."

The answer further denies the validity of the original commitment, and respecting the same alleges:

"The court had no power or jurisdiction to make or issue the same, and the relator (meaning the said Thaw) never was tried for his sanity, upon which a commitment could issue."

This latter contention was expressly made and overruled in the proceeding preceding before this court, and the ruling there thereon was affirmed by the Appellate Division upon the appeal above recited, and, therefore, that claim will not here be further considered. The basis thus joined by the return and answer is that of the present sanity of Thaw, or, in other words, whether or not he has now become sane to the public peace or safety.

By the terms of section 454 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, by authority of which such commitment was made, the term of his imprisonment or detention thereunder was only "until he becomes sane"; so that if he has now attained the state of sanity to the degree mentioned the term of his commitment has expired and he is entitled to be discharged therefrom.

Great Mass of Testimony Heard.

The statute (section 29 of the Code of Civil Procedure) provides that upon the joinder of issue in such a proceeding "the court or judge must proceed in a summary way, to hear the evidence produced in support of or against the imprisonment or detention, etc." In obedience to such command this court proceeded with all possible despatch to try such issue, and between fifteen witnesses have been examined orally and the testimony of those other witnesses, given at some one or more of the prior trials or investigations, has been read from the minutes thereof under the stipulation of counsel that it should be here the same effect as though actually given orally in the course of this trial.

Therefore, this court has now before it the testimony of 125 witnesses, and it is more or less now the question to be determined. Whether under all of the former trials or investigations, it seems plain that probable cause existed for the belief of the court to aid in its determination.

There have been four previous judicial or quasi judicial determinations of the question of the prisoner's insanity at various times and by various degrees of proof. At the threshold of the consideration of the case here the question is therefore subject.

What is this proceeding in the effect of? these proofs of his life, and on the other side at all of them the parties before the court were substantially the same, and some more or less

PERSIA'S BOY SHAH ATTEMPTS TO END HIS LIFE

Ahmed Mirza, boy Shah of Persia.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 12.—Dispatches received from Teheran, Persia, say that the young Shah recently attempted suicide when told that his deposed father was to be exiled. He may abdicate. A brother of the deposed Shah is marching on Teheran.

ROUND OF PLEASURE AT WONDERLAND

The "Alice in Wonderland" parade and spectacle, which for two years delighted old and young during Wonderland's closing weeks, was but an ordinary thing compared with the great Cinderella parade and stage production now being given at Wonderland every day at 2:30 and 8:30 p. m. In the spectacle are fifty most talented young girls from all over Chester Bedou, and a new feature is the Florodora number, in which twenty boys and girls sing and dance. The brilliantly costumed throng seem like a chapter from some fairy book.

Cinderella is drawing the biggest afternoon crowds since the opening season of the park three years ago, when everything was novel. The management intends to improve the Cinderella production until it will be the last word in open air free park shows. Wonderland is making a specialty of sea-food dinners at moderate prices at the big restaurant, the ballroom is one of the largest and coolest in the parks this Summer, Teel's military band and O'Connor's orchestra are always up-to-date, while the combination fifty cent tickets, giving free shows and park admission go better every week.

Over all this is the weekly visit of the SUNDAY AMERICAN Outing Club with its 10,000 members on Monday and Tuesday, all provided with free tickets to the park's leading attractions. Next Sunday's BOSTON AMERICAN will publish fourteen Wonderland free tickets, good for park admission and the vaudeville absolutely free, and the others half-fare to twelve of the park's leading shows and rides. Order the SUNDAY AMERICAN in advance and make sure of the tickets.

87,000 APPLICANTS FOR FEDERAL LAND

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 12.—Everything was ready to-day for Judge Whiten and his assistants to remove the covers from fourteen large cans, containing 87,000 applications, for Flathead reservation lands. The three girls who have heretofore officiated will then begin the drawings. Fifteen hundred names will be drawn to-day, 2,500 on Friday and 2,500 on Saturday, making 6,500 for the 3,000 claims on the reservation.

SCOTS' SOCIETIES IN A BIG PARADE

PROVIDENCE, Aug. 12.—The Scottish societies all over the State are celebrating Scotch Day here to-day. Over 400 members took part in a parade and then went to Rocky Point for a clam bake and athletic games. Robert Burton was chief marshall of the parade. He was followed by the Highland Dress Association of Boston, The British Veteran's Association of Providence and Clan Cameron and Clan Fraser, both local organizations.

DEATH SUSPECT IN LUMBER CAMP

WOODSTOCK, N. B., Aug. 12.—Alexander Macalli, for whom the authorities have been searching on a charge of having murdered Nicholas Legay, was captured late last night at Brown's siding, near Bath, where he had, hidden in an Italian camp. Legay died at a hospital following wounds received in a fight in an Italian lumber camp near here several days ago. Macalli was brought here to-day.

SETH LOW MAY GET BRITISH MISSION

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—Seth Low, formerly Mayor of this city, declined to-day, at the Summer home in Bedford, N. Y., to discuss a report from Washington that he may be the next Ambassador to England. "I am not at liberty to deny or confirm the report," he said. "I do not care to discuss the matter."

MOTHER IS AVENGER OF DEAD GIRL

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 12.—"My daughter's murder must be avenged. If the police do not arrest her murderer today I will start out myself and look for him," declared the mother of seventeen-year-old Anna Schumacher, who was slain in Holy Sepulchre Cemetery and her body buried in a shallow grave.

"We shall spend every dollar we have to run down the murderer," said one of Mrs. Schumacher's daughters, "and if we find him there will be no need of a trial."

This sentiment was echoed on every hand to-day, and if the slayer of the girl is caught the authorities will have hard work to prevent a lynching. The police believe that the man will be captured to-day.

A posse is in pursuit of a man who answers the description of the person who was last seen with Miss Schumacher in the cemetery. This man was seen in Greece, a town near here. That the fugitive is the slayer of the girl or knows something of the killing the police declare that they are positive.

He looks like the man seen in the cemetery with the girl, and his clothing, with the exception of the hat, is the same. He evidently escaped from Rochester on a train, having been first seen in Greece when he was ejected from a car, and hastened to ward a woods. Persons who saw him add and read descriptions of the man seen in the cemetery with Miss Schumacher saw at once a striking resemblance, and immediately notified the police. They gave chase, but the man had a good start on them and was soon lost to sight in the woods.

The news was immediately telephoned to Rochester and the sheriff and posse hastened to Greece. The small police force of the village was not sufficient to surround the woods and the man might have escaped. All trains are watched.

The authorities are certain that even if he has escaped from the thicket he has not gone far and will soon be in custody. All trains entering Greece are being carefully watched for the fugitive and conductors and other train men have been instructed to hold any man stealing a ride.

START INQUIRY ON BATHHOUSE AWARD

The Finance Commission is giving a careful examination to the award by the Board of Bath Trustees of a contract for the East Boston bathhouse to the second lowest bidder. The reason given by the bath trustees for not awarding the contract to the lowest bidders, Mack & Moore, was that a building constructed by the firm for the department had not been satisfactory. Officials later found that the building was all right.

BLINDED BY ROCKET; SUES FOR $210,000

Suits for damages totalling $210,000 were filed to-day by Mrs. Francis A. Kerr of Neponset and her husband, Francis A. Kerr, as the result of the town fireworks display in Brookline on the Fourth of July one year ago. Mr. and Mrs. Kerr are taking an auto ride through Brookline when, they claim, a sky rocket came down and struck Mrs. Kerr, causing her permanent blindness in one of her eyes and the loss of several teeth. The suits are brought against the town of Brookline, the National Fireworks Company, and the National Distributing Fireworks Company.

POLICE DISCIPLINE LOOSENS UP; LID IS OFF AGAIN IN BOSTON

Almost as if by special permission the hordes of women street walkers who infest Washington, Boylston, Tremont, Eliot, Beach and neighboring streets made their appearance again last night. A large number ventured out Tuesday evening, but apparently they were a little ahead of the schedule and they were quickly ushered back into their holes. Not, however, until two of them managed to touch J. Edwin Leighton of Everett for his bank roll, right under the shadow of the Hotel Touraine. The police made no arrest in this case, but did not recover the stolen money, which the woman seems to have slipped to a confederate.

An incident showing that somebody high up has concluded to ignore the storm of criticism and has incidentally encouraged the burglars to get back on the job was the bold looting of the apartments of Ralph Thompson at No. 47 Falmouth street, Back Bay, Tuesday night. Money, a watch and other jewelry were stolen from this place.

Convictions Can Be Secured.

The Watch and Ward Society continues to secure convictions daily against the monsters who debase and ruin boys and girls with their infamous cocaine traffic, but the police doggedly decline to co-operate save to serve warrants, and they do this only because the courts in express terms "command" such service. Secretary Chase has managed in a month to send several of these scoundrels to jail for terms as long as six months, while the police reply to agonized fathers and mothers who rue their boys and girls on the road to perdition in their old and familiarly stereotyped phrase of:

"Bring us the evidence and we will act."

The AMERICAN gives a few more letters from citizens and regrets to say that it has not the space to give the letter from "Station 10" in full. The writer of this is apparently a policeman who wants to be fair, and as he represents the arguments of hundreds of his decent comrades the AMERICAN gives his second letter the privilege of publication, despite the fact that more than 200 letters from citizens await their turn. "Station 10's" communication follows:

Letter from "Station 10."

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

The writer, whose communication you so kindly published on the 6th inst., desires to state as follows:

If, as you claimed editorially, and thereby considerably exaggerated matters, inveigh against the "system" only, why do you publish letters portraying acts of individual officers?

Why not, since individual officers are inveighed against, advance some work of honest officers, as the arrests by Patrolmen McCarthy and Wallace of Division 10 yesterday? It would balance the scales and help the public realize that despite the "system of ROME" of your disclosure, there really are hundreds of efficient men on the force.

To show that the writer of this letter is unbiased in his views, he states unqualifiedly the following, viz.: that had he the right there would be two names placed on the suspension list till the parties knew more about police work, their duties and powers than merely to pull a rope.

Germane to esoteric trials, let me say that any committee should not allow some disinterested persons to be present, if for no other reason than to give an accused officer a fair trial.

Let the writer say that while he understands your attitude must cheapen many of the public do not. Don't you think that in your editorial you might have said in a much clearer way that while it was the "system" you were hurling invectives at, you would refer to acts of individual officers only in so much as they were relative to the present scope of administration?

Again, there are loafers, crooks, men of all kinds, good, bad and indifferent, on the force as in every walk of life. Suppose, as you claim with some truth, some reports are allowed to run whether the police are accomplices I don't affirm or deny; and some officers did and shot them; now this, if true, draws forth a tirade from you; well and good.

Let me say that such ignorance of high officials is deplorable; that if all you publish is true about these reports, there is time for a change. I could write much more about this and will write again, and trust you will accord me the courtesy of publication of this missive, or such portions as I lay stress upon.

"STATION 10."

Night Walkers Routed.

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

Your paper has certainly done great work in clearing streets, such as Chandler, Clarendon and Columbus avenue of the drunks and night-walkers. Some of the same women have been around these corners for three years. I have seen one fat-faced, rosy-cheeked officer taking pity at night with these women and they chuckling him under the chin. How about the screen law, where the bar room opens at the corner of Columbus avenue and Dartmouth street; hundreds of men with ground glass windows on Chandler street, where they drink late at night? And you can't look in. How about the drunks they had, tumbling out and lounging around the corner, until your paper commenced? (Signed) W. F. O.

East Boston Needs Cleaning.

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

I am glad that you have extended your well merited criticism of the police force to East Boston.

"Trainpaver" spoke of the immorality of the waterfront, and as East Boston is as blind it would be well for particularize the part of the waterfront he means.

I have been around the world a good deal and, in my judgment, the most corrupt spot on the waterfront is that part which runs from Decatur street to the North Ferry.

It seems incredible that such conditions could exist under the eyes of the police, but it is a fact that there are dives along that road that would put anything in the Bowery far in the shade. I have been there and know whereof I speak.

The article I saw and heard there so disgusted me that instead of having any demoralizing effect on my character, I think it made me a better man, and I left the place with a fervent "Thank God" that my wife and children do not have to live in the foul atmosphere of such debauchery.

Go by there at 10 or 11 o'clock and the locality is reasonably respectable, but pass there between 12 and 2 and the conduct is enough to contaminate the atmosphere. There is no one of common sense but must admit that the police know all about it. For God's sake, root out this evil for the young growth is coming on to have the thanks of the fathers and mothers of this community.

REFUSES WARRANT FOR THE ARREST OF ACCUSED OFFICER

Abraham Miller, the proprietor of an ice cream factory at No. 669 Commercial street, who claims that Policeman John R. Fitzgerald of Station 1 assaulted him in his place of business when he ejected two girls, who were dancing in the officer's presence, was to-day refused a warrant for the lieutenant's arrest.

Miller appeared before Judge Michael Sullivan to-day. Sergeant Cronin of Station 1 presented the Court with Miller's petition for a warrant charging Fitzgerald with assault and battery.

Policeman Fitzgerald was in court with Miller. The two girls, whom Miller says he found dancing in his ice cream factory after midnight Monday morning while the policeman and two other men were looking on, were in court also.

After a half-hour's consultation, Judge Sullivan refused to issue the warrant. Miller yesterday said that he had ordered the girls out of his place and that they Fitzgerald had knocked him down and held a revolver at his head.

ELOPERS DASH TO PROVIDENCE AT MIDNIGHT

PROVIDENCE, Aug. 12.—This Lochinvar came from Brattleboro, Vt., and the blushing but supremely happy and charming companion from Boston.

They stopped late Wednesday night in a red touring car at the mystic hour of midnight, and after rousting John W. Bowe, the City Clerk, from his slumbers, they were married by the Rev. W. O. Nazum of the First Methodist church.

Five minutes later, with the City Clerk's congratulatory salute still fresh on the lips of the bride, they were tearing along over the track to the Hub of the Universe.

He is Thomas Warren Crosby, twenty-one years old, son of Edward C. Crosby, a Brattleboro contractor, and she was Miss Anna Marie Landry, twenty-four years old, whose father, Arsene Landry, is a surveyor in Boston. Although none of the kindly Townsend folk who aided in the elopement had the slightest doubt that it was one of those matches made in the celestial regions, it was equally palpable to them that the request for the license and the person and behind it the fear of the possibility that a second big touring car might dash into the plot at any minute and seriously retard the course of the story.

Thus it was that the loneliness of the hero and the almost tearful despair of the heroine, when the first two witnesses called from their slumbers and offered prominent speaking parts, refused the roles were reflected in the peeved countenance of Mr. Bowe and another good citizen who, in answer to Cupid's cry, "Q. D.," flushed by the City Hall and stood by to render such aid as he might.

But the Rev. Mr. Nazum saved the situation and made the final scene all it should be, even unto the dust "Rises from our children," and pronounced us somewhat and benedictorily as the most affected parent possibly could have done.

DANCE WILL USHER IN HULL GALA DAY

Plans have been perfected for making the Hull Gala Day celebration on Saturday the most notable event of its kind along the Nantasket shore. The athletic events will last all day and the competitors will include some of the best pedestrians and interscholastic performers. To usher in the gala day a subscription dance has been arranged for Friday evening at the Alvena Club at Bay Side. The patrons will be Mrs. James A. Gallivan, Mrs. Donald A. Macdonald and Mrs. Henry S. Fitzgerald.

SOCIETY ON BURROS IS PEAK CLIMBING

CRAWFORD HOUSE, N. H., Aug. 12.—New York society people are becoming enthusiastic over mountain climbing, particularly since Colorado burros were introduced to White Mountain tracts. Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Pyne of New York, with F. B. Pyne, Jr., M. H. Pyne and Meredith Howland, Jr., who are spending the Summer at the Profile House, mounted on burros and to-day took an early start up Mt. Washington on burros' backs.

SHOWMAN CRUSHED BY HUGE PYTHON

PERU, Ind., Aug. 12.—Gus Lamb rizzer, the showman, of Orville, O., had a terrible experience with a python. The python is twenty-eight feet long, twenty inches in circumference and weighs about two pounds. The reptile got out of its cage and when Lamb rizzer tried to drive it back it attacked him and wound itself about his body and began to crush him. It required the efforts of seven men, who beat the reptile nearly to death before it released its hold.

CZAR'S MEN KILL GERMANS IN BALLOON

BERLIN, Aug. 12.—A report was received from the Russian frontier this morning that the Czar's soldiers had fired on the German balloon and had killed three of its four occupants and severely injured the fourth.

An investigation was started and if the report is confirmed representations will be made by the German government to the Czar demanding an explanation and an apology. According to the dispatch, the occupants of the balloon had no chance for their lives. Several volleys were fired by the Russian soldiers and the bag of the balloon was torn to tatters.

There has been ill feeling for some time over the fact that German soldiers in balloons have crossed the Russian frontier and it is even said that the Czar's government has protested to Emperor William's foreign minister against this.

A. E. ADAMS DEAD.

Arthur E. Adams of No. 8 Littell road, Brookline, died last night, about seventeen hours after the passing away of Col. Albert A. Pope, with whom he first started business. Mr. Adams had been spending the Summer at his camp in North Acton. He was taken ill Sunday and brought by automobile to the Boothby Hospital, where he died, with stomach trouble.

MOTORMAN KILLS RATTLER ON TRACK

A rattlesnake with nine well developed rattles was killed as it lay on the street railway tracks just beyond Mattapan, by Charles H. Wilson, the motorman of a Brockton car. The snake was about six feet long, and was sunning itself on the track when Wilson's car approached. Wilson's weapon was a switch iron, and he handled it so well that the killing of the snake was easy. At this season dangerous snakes are shedding skin, and cannot see well, otherwise the battle would have been a hard one.

INQUIRY ON NAVY BOXING FATALITY

A court of inquiry connected with the battleship fleet at Hampton Roads is sitting to-day on the case of David W. Williams, the negro mess attendant on the battleship Vermont, who is charged with having caused the death of Mess Attendant Hanson W. Foster, also colored, in a boxing match while the fleet was at Provincetown. The hearing will be on board the Minnesota. The Massachusetts State authorities have said they wanted Williams on a charge of manslaughter. If he is acquitted he will probably be returned to the Vermont.

TAFT PLAYS GOLF WITH HAMMOND

BEVERLY, Aug. 12.—President Taft took things easily to-day and spent the morning with John Hays Hammond on the Myopia golf course, and in the afternoon talked over official business for a while with Secretary Carpenter.

To-morrow will be the President's busy day. In the morning there will be the postponed golf match with the President and Mr. Hammond playing against General Ames and W. J. Boardman. The President was beaten at the last match between the four.

Word was received to-day that to-morrow afternoon Assistant Secretary of Commerce and Labor Ormsby McHarg and Census Director Dunn E. Durand will meet the President at his home and talk over the appointment of enumerators in each of the States for the next census. The enumerators in each State appoint all of the States assistant enumerators, and thus these places on account of their political patronage are eagerly sought after.

Hitchcock Due To-morrow.

Postmaster General Hitchcock, who was the President's political manager, arrives from Washington to-morrow for several weeks' stay in Massachusetts and will be present at the conference.

President Taft has announced that no violent political partisan will get these census jobs; and that in the South Democrats of standing in those States where Democrats are in the majority are eligible to appointment to places. The list of appointees is expected to be made public within the next week as a result of to-morrow's conference.

Secretary of the Treasury Franklin MacVeagh will come down from his Summer home in Buffalo, N. Y., to-morrow and submit to the President a list of tariff experts to be appointed to decide questions arising under the administration of the new tariff. Congress has appropriated $75,000 for the payment of these experts. Secretary MacVeagh and the President will decide upon their number and the men who get the places, and the list will be announced at once.

Plans for Western Trip.

The secretaries and clerks in the executive offices are still at work on the arrangements for the coming western trip of the President, which begins September 15 and will last six weeks. It was announced to-day Secretary Carpenter will remain in Washington and that Assistant Secretary of War Wilcox will act as Secretary to the President on the trip and Captain Archibald Butt will go along as military aide.

At different places along the trip the President's party will be joined by members of the Cabinet, United States Senators and State officials. Secretary Nagle of Commerce and Labor will go down the Mississippi with the President, Secretary of War Dickinson will go through the South with the President and Secretary Ballinger of the Interior will join him in the Northwest. Senators Carter of Montana, Borah of Utah and Bourne of Oregon will travel with the President through their respective States.

Another Invitation.

In spite of the fact that the President says he won't accept any more picnic, outing and parade invitations, he got another to-day. This time it was Charles E. Russell, sergeant-at-arms of the New England Letter Carriers' and H. S. Worcester who wanted him to attend the reunion of the Weirs during the last of August.

The President is expected to break his rule and look on at the parade of the Essex County (Massachusetts) G. A. R. early in September, which will go near the President's house.

It was definitely announced at the executive offices to-day that the President will not see the war games next week, though he is much interested in them.

YOU MAY LOSE WIFE IF YOU DON'T SHAVE

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—Judge Goff having decided in the Supreme Court that a soiled collar and a frayed face are sufficient grounds for separation proceedings married men who have been in the habit of wearing mourning bands on their linen and permitting their chins to unravel will have to spruce up if they wish to sidestep the matrimonial remnant counter.

"Why, I expect to lose every married customer I've got," said one barber to-day. "Unless that decision is set aside what's to prevent a man who is anxious to get rid of his wife from letting his fringe grow? Mark me, by the end of the week I'll be able to pick out the dissatisfied married men by their unshaved faces and soiled linen. And there's another angle. Any man who is anxious to keep his wife won't rush to the barber's. He'll buy a safety razor."

Married martyrs who have visions of having their hitherto hard earned money cut down have a Mr. Mogilewsky to thank for Judge Goff's anti-whisker decision. Mrs. Mogilewsky is suing her husband for a separation. His lawyer went before the Court and asked that the weekly alimony be reduced.

"Why, Your Honor," replied Mogilewsky's attorney, "my client has to wear dirty collars and go without shaving to pay this weekly allowance. He was in my office to-day and his collar looked like the spare on an American line boat."

"And how do you expect that because of his wife?" asked Judge Goff.

"Under some circumstances that of itself might be cause for separation," said the Court. "And, in addition, I fail to grasp the sacrificial end of it."

EVERY IMMIGRANT AGENCY IS WATCHED

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—"Every immigrant agency and mission in this city will be investigated, and when I am through with them I will be able to report that they are run properly and in the interests of the immigrants they profess to protect."

In these words Commissioner Williams makes clear his intentions regarding the immigrant institutions of the city.

Commissioner Williams's stern methods in dealing with fraudulent bureaus reached President Taft, and both he and Secretary Nagel of the Department of Commerce and Labor have expressed the wish that the most drastic measures should be employed in dealing with either missions or agencies which were not protecting foreigners.

Whoever Gets Your Milk Trade Must Make Him Win It

Don't take a milk because somebody says: "This is as good as Van Camp's." If you do, what encouragement have we for making a milk so good?

Holstein cows cost more than mongrel cows. But the difference fully shows in the milk.

Thick milk, with two-thirds the water evaporated, is costlier to the maker than thin milk.

And sugar costs less than evaporated milk. So condensed milk, which is nearly half sugar, is what the maker likes to sell.

If you will take inferior milks, and pay the price of Van Camp's, there are plenty to sell them to you.

But what then do we gain by spending so much to give you the best that we can?

Whole, Rich Milk

Van Camp's gives to milk dishes a richness and flavor which you never can get from raw milk.

The reason is that milkman's milk separates—before and after you get it. The butter fat rises and the solids fall. The raw milk used for cooking, usually, is hardly more than a half-milk.

Van Camp's has all the solids, all the fats that belong to the richest milk. When you once compare it with raw milk in cooking, you will find the difference amazing.

Our Holstein Cows

We milk 25,000 cows daily, and buy none but the Holstein breed. These robust, contented cows possess tremendous vitality which is conveyed to their milk.

There is a vast difference between milk like this and milk from mongrel cows.

The fresh milk from the cow is placed in a vacuum. And a moderate heat, because of that vacuum, throws off the water in steam.

Thus we remove two-thirds of the water to reduce the bulk. The milk that results is as thick as thick cream.

That is all we do. Nothing whatever is added, and nothing but water subtracted.

A Germless Milk

We have no tubercular cows, and no diseased milkmen. For cows and men are frequently inspected.

Our dairies are sanitary in the extreme. Our evaporating plants are built without wood.

Every can of Van Camp's is sterilized after the can is sealed. So germ development is utterly out of the question.

So much of raw milk contains disease germs that every authority warns people against it. In Van Camp's, there are no germs at all.

The slight almond flavor, apparent when we drink Van Camp's milk cold, is due to the heat applied in sterilization.

Its Immense Economy

You would think that such milk would cost more than the common. But the cost, on the basis of raw milk, is about six cents per quart.

A full pint of Van Camp's costs 10 cents by the can, and less if you buy by the case. That is enough to make three pints of rich milk, if you wish to put back all the water.

For the cost of raw milk is doubled by the cost of daily delivery.

Then you have no waste—no milk left over. You open a can when you want it, and it keeps till you use it up. That means a considerable additional saving.

A can of Van Camp's lasts a month or more. Then you have rich milk or cream—little or much—ready whenever you want it.

Not Like Others

A great deal of milk sold in cans is condensed milk, of which 40 per cent is sugar.

Sugar was formerly used to preserve milk—before the days of sterilization. It is not needed now, so you waste what you pay for it.

Condensed milk, because of the sugar, is unfitted for cooking. It is unnatural, extravagant and out-of-date milk.

There are also evaporated milks, unsweetened, which are very unlike Van Camp's.

Ours is Holstein milk, from cows of the finest breed. And the milk is reduced until it is 28 per cent solids—8 per cent butter fat.

Common milk, not so greatly reduced, may be said to be as good as Van Camp's. But a test will show that it isn't.

The superiority of Van Camp's is so generally known that people now use 100,000,000 cans annually.

The 16-oz. can of Van Camp's sells for 10 cents; the 6-oz. can for 5 cents. So you get one-third more for your money in buying the larger cans. Grocers give discounts on cases. The milk is produced at our dairies, located in six states.

JOHNSON ANXIOUS FOR JEFF MATCH

Prefers Winner to Take Entire Purse

CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—That meeting between Jack Johnson and Sam Berger at which the articles of agreement for a fight between Jeffries and Johnson were drawn up and signed was one of the hottest sessions of conversation held on duffic matters for a long time.

Incidentally matters were brought out that shed several new lights on the attitude of both fighters, and in the estimation of those best posted in the game, should end all talk about the black champion being a four flusher in his apparent anxiety to fight the big fellow.

It was generally believed that Johnson would demand a purse division that would leave him a comfortable sum of money in the event of his defeat at the hands of the Californian.

The negro threw a bombshell into the camp of the enemy, however, when the question of purse dividing came up by making it clear that his preference was that the best man should take the entire purse.

Johnson showed himself willing to accede to nearly everything that was asked, his chief desire appearing to be that the articles should be drawn up in such a manner as to insure a fight.

Jack Johnson will leave here on Saturday for San Francisco, where he will box Jack O'Brien ten rounds on September 6. He will probably go by way of Seattle, where he has a couple of good offers for short bouts.

Sam Berger will remain in Chicago until the transfer of the $5,000 from the New York to the Chicago stakeholder, when he, too, will go to the coast.

Johnson and Berger met at noon. It did not take long to get to business, though Little, manager of the black fighter, turned the entire business over to Johnson, and Berger first produced articles of agreement which he had signed when he posted his $5,000 forfeit in New York.

"These articles do not mean anything to me," said Johnson. "What I want to do is to sign articles to fight. I'll fight upon any division of the purse that Jeffries may agree to, but I prefer winner take all. Or I will accept 60 and 40 percent., 65 and 35 per cent. or 75 and 25 per cent. Mr. Jeffries is chosen between the four propositions."

"The question of splitting the purse cannot be decided now," said Berger. "We must first wait until we see how good an offer is forthcoming for the battle."

"It hadn't ought to make any difference to Jeffries so far as the size of the purse is concerned. My proposition should be satisfactory to him even though the purse might be only a $10 note," was Johnson's come back.

Friction Over Purse Division.

Berger fought hard against putting anything in the articles whatever concerning the purse division, but Johnson said something must be done on that subject or no articles would be signed. For a time it looked as though no agreement would be reached.

"I'll bet you $1,000 your man never fights," said Johnson, moving his left hand toward his pistol pocket, where he had a roll of bills stowed away.

Berger told him he was acting like a child instead of a man.

"I didn't come here to bet on that subject," Berger answered.

"Yes, but you think your man will win, don't you?" flashed Johnson.

"I think I can drink a glass of water without choking," was Berger's reply.

"I'll bet you $10,000 that he don't win and that you'll choke when he loses," said Johnson.

Berger laughed.

"You've been riding around on free cars for a long time," said Berger.

"Yes, but some one has been paying the fare," said Johnson.

Hot Words Over Title.

After articles of agreement had been framed the question as to which one of the two fighters was the world's champion led to a red-hot discussion. Berger wanted it stated in the articles that James J. Jeffries was champion of the world. Johnson strenuously objected and kept his weather eye on Berger's pencil while he was framing the sentences.

"How did you ever become champion?" Berger asked, with a sneer.

"By whipping Tommy Burns," answered the black fellow. "Jeffries gave the title to Hart, and Burns whipped Hart, then I took it away from him in Sydney, Australia. That's how I got it."

"That's a lie," said Berger. "Jeffries never gave the title to any one. He still is champion. Why, Hart got the decision over you and that should have eliminated you entirely."

"Everybody knows how I was robbed of that decision," said Johnson. "Sam, you ought to be ashamed of yourself as a man to even bring that fact into argument. Besides, you know that Jeffries lost his claim to the championship when he refused to fight me."

To which Berger replied: "But you were not even considered in the championship class then. And, besides, that was a year and a half after Jeffries had retired. Why, Battling Nelson might as well claim the heavyweight championship if he should challenge Jeffries and Jeff would refuse to fight."

Johnson then said that he had fought his way up to his present place in the fighting world, and that he did not propose to allow Jeffries to have everything his own way.

Sam Joshes Johnson

"Did you ever whip a man like Fitzsimmons, or Sharkey, or Corbett, or Robbin, or any of the others from whom Jeffries won and then go back and did the same job over again?" asked Berger. "You've been fighting men like Burns, Hart and Schreck."

"Tell you what I'll do," said Johnson. "I'll bet you $1,000 that I'm the recognized champion and we'll go down on the street and ask the first 10 men we meet who is the champion fighter of the world, and the majority of opinions will rule."

Berger made a move toward his pocket as if to accept, but instead of drawing out greenbacks he brought forth a cigar-ette. Johnson sat down with his head still on that roll of bills. It was clear that Berger was josking Johnson.

"You know Wyoubp was the greatest race horse the world has ever seen, but he never broke any records," said Johnson. "He just kept on winning."

"He kept on winning and always defeating skates who had made alleged records," was Berger's reply. "That's Jeff."

JEFFRIES BALKS UNTIL JOHNSON PUTS UP $10,000

PLYMOUTH, Eng., Aug. 12.—A new tangle in the Johnson-Jeffries war developed here to-day. James J. Jeffries, the former heavyweight champion pugilist, decided when he arrived at this metropolis on the Hamburg-American liner George Washington the cabled report that his manager, Sam Berger, personally had signed articles with Champion Jack Johnson in Chicago for a match.

Jeffries stated, however, that he would sign with Johnson provided the negro would post a $10,000 side bet.

An Australian named Hyne is said to have posted a $10,000 side bet with Johnson for $20,000. Jeffries and his wife left here for Bremen soon after their arrival.

McINTOSH HERE TO-MORROW TO BID FOR BIG BATTLE

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—Hugh D. McIntosh, the man who promoted the Johnson fight in Australia, will arrive here from Europe to-morrow.

He intends, it is said, to notify Sam Berger that he will hang up a $70,000 purse for the proposed Jeffries-Johnson mill in the Antipodes and believes that he can make money because of the feeling of interest here and Australian hunger for negro gore.

As Jeffries has already declared that he will not fight Johnson except on American soil, McIntosh is apparently secure in making his prodigious offer. Maybe in his way, Joe, you know there are lots of freight trains running now between here and Chicago.

GOLF GOSSIP

NEWS OF THE LINKS

The Western Golf Association is making an effort to stimulate interest among the women in competitive play. The secretary of the Lansing long distance, and the consequence annoyance, and in some cases expense, to attend the important functions drives many of the fair ones out of the tournaments. The executives are now considering a plan by which their mothers, wives and daughters may contest on a plan similar to the "Tom Morris Memorial" scheme. The idea is good and might be very profitably used in this part of the United States. Many women live big, husky men sick at the prospect of having to be carried when playing at a distant course.

Mr. Samuel Carr, who is President of the Essex County Club, takes great interest in the open Summer meetings of the club. Mr. George F. Willett is the chairman of the golf committee, and the entries for the tournament are coming in nicely for the clubhouse. The meeting next week will be under the same ruling as the June event, and there will be four or five flights, according to the size of the field.

Next Saturday the Hatherly Golf Club will hold a club tournament for the "Club" cup, and will undoubtedly draw a field representing a large portion of its membership. The best eight scores will count and the play will be medal handicap. The successful eight will contest for the trophy by match play, the finals being played on Friday or Saturday of next week.

The President's 307 at the Myopia Hunt Club on Tuesday was good, and had it not been for his three eights on the thirteenth, fifteenth and eighteenth holes, he would have broken 100. His playing of the eighth hole was extremely good, for he negotiated a five, which many a professional is contented with on a 540-yard hole. He also snatched up a two on the 140-yard ninth hole. We hope that the President will play in the Essex County Club tournament next week.

CADDIES CHEER AS BAT PUTS K O ON GOLF BALL

By IGOE.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—There fell another victim to the bonnie Scotch game of golf when Battling Nelson undertook to learn the game and batted the tantalizing little white pellet all over the Courtland links.

With a number of newspapermen as plots the Dane made the round in 125. To the surprise of every one the battler whacked the first ball he ever teed in his life fairly over a bunker.

Nelson wanted to bet that he could clear the obstruction, and a scribe, wanting to clinch his bet, handed Bat an old style ball that was about as lively as a cobble stone. But took a mid-iron, asked what it was, demanded the direction of the goal, and let fly.

A pair of wild-eyed caddies cheered the mayor of Hegewich as the ball sailed like a bird over the mound and almost to the green.

But Bat's inexperience was very evident thereafter. He aggravated the hole to two and then came a cropper. It took him thirteen to hole out. But the caddies never lost faith in him.

The round who dropped in for a game yesterday and wanted a caddy could not have hired one for love or money. They were on the reception committee and waiting to it that the lightweight champion got quite a welcome as became a citizen of Dar. N. M.

Though the Dane tore up great patches of valuable green grass he kept right at it and announced at the finish that he was ready for the other philanthropists, John D. Rockefeller and Andrew Carnegie.

Nelson purchased his mid-iron for a souvenir, and that bat now becomes a part of the collection that fills half of his Hegewich home.

KETCHEL BALKS AT FRISCO RUMOR

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 12.—It has been reported here that Stanley Ketchel will not meet Sam Langford, the Boston negro boxer, at the Fairmont A. C. on September 5.

It is said that negotiations are under way to match the middleweight champion with Billy Papke for a forty-five round bout, to take place on admission day.

In the event of this date being booked it was further stated that Ketchel would not come East to meet Langford. Ketchel and Manager Willus Britt are somewhere in Medicine County and will not come forward with any statement to verify the rumor.

MONTE SCORES K. O. IN FOURTH

BOSTON AMERICANS DOUBLE

THE PARADOX OF TIME

By AUSTIN DOBSON

TIME goes, you say? Ah, no!
Alas, Time stays, we go;
Or else, were this not so,
What need to chain the hours,
For youth were always our?
Time goes, you say? Ah, no!

Our is the eyes' deceit
Of men whose flying feet
Lead through some landscapes
low:
We pass, and think we see
The earth's fixed surface flee—
Alas, Time stays—we go!

Once in the days of old,
Your locks were curling gold
And mine had shamed the crow.
Now, in the half-spent stage,
We've reached the silver age;
Time goes, you say—ah, no!

Once, when my voice was strong,
I filled the woods with song
To praise your "rose" and "snow;"
My birch that sang, is dead;
Where are your roses fled?
Alas, Time stays—we go!

See, in what traversed ways,
What backward Fate delays
The hopes we used to know;
Where are our old desires—
Ah, where those vanished fires?
Time goes, you say?—ah, no!

How far, how far, O Sweet,
The past behind our feet
Lies in the even-glow!
Now, on the forward way,
Let us fold hands pray;
Alas, Time stays—we go!

Percy the Press Agent

He Discusses Modesty and Gets a Jolt

By HANK

"WHAT do you think of these sheath gown bathing suits the girls are wearing at the beach this Summer?" asked the Show Girl of Percy, as Joe, the blond-haired waiter, hurried away with their order.

"Immodest, frightfully immodest," replied Percy, emphatically.

"Piffle," said the Show Girl. "They're cute, that's what they are. I'm going to get one, and I'll bet you'll like me in it, too."

"Think so?" said Percy incontinently.

"Yes, I think so," said the Show Girl. "What's more immodest about them than the ones they've always worn? And besides, what chance has modesty nowadays buckin' up against Salome dresses, pantaloon gowns and the low-necked affairs they're wearing. Even at that, I believe a girl can be modest and fashionable, too."

"Not on your life, she can't," answered Percy. "When modesty tries to get in the same class with fashion it gets the cold shoulder so bad that it disappears in a sunset of blushes.

Something of a Problem

"I saw an example of that once at the Flatiron building. There were two solid-aged solonsters struggling to get around the Broadway and Twenty-third street corner, and what old Boreas was doing to them was a shame. One of them was wearing a sky-piece that looked like an aurora borealis with a jag. It had pink and green feathers on it and a brim so wide that it looked like an aeroplane.

"Well, the one with the hat got stuck on the corner in the wind and couldn't get any further. Both of them were trying to be modest and hold down their skirts, but the one with the hat didn't have a shoot of a show. As soon as she tried to keep her skirts from flapping she'd have to let go to grab her bonnet, which threatened to go sailing away like Bleriot sailing the channel. As soon as she grabbed her hat she would get conscience stricken and she'd make a wild attempt to hold down her dress again.

"There she stood, alternately grubbing her hat and then letting go to try and be modest and not moving an inch. Well, finally she gave up and gettin' a firm grip on her hat beat it around the corner, giving a display of her limbs in black-ribbed hose that would have done credit to a dry goods shop window. Her companion greeted her with an exclamation of horror.

"'Maria,' she cried, 'have you lost all your modesty?'

"'I guess I have, barah,' answered the other, still holding on to her hat and gasping for breath, but I've had my modesty for thirty-six years and my new hat about ten minutes, so I decided to let the modesty go.'

The Waiter Settled It

"Oh," said the Show Girl disdainfully, "those folks were prudes. Anyhow I don't blame her for not wantin' to lose her new hat."

"Neither do I," said Percy, "but just the same it proved what I said about modesty gettin' it in the neck when it goes buttin' up against fashion."

"Ah, you don't know what modesty is," said the Show Girl. "I'll bet Joe knows more about it than you do. Here he is coming back with your beans now. Ask him."

"He'll spring some joke about the undressed salad being immodest, I'll bet," said Percy. "Don't be foolish."

"I'll bet he won't," said the Show Girl, her sporting blood up. "I'll just bet you an extra plate of butter cakes he gives you a good answer."

"You're on," replied her companion, and as the waiter clattered the plates on the table he asked:

"Joe, my lady friend and I would like to know what your idea of true modesty is?"

"That's easy," answered Joe, "the tip you gave me last night was the modestest thing I ever seen."

"Bring an extra plate of butter cakes, Joe," said Percy, avoiding the smiling face of the Show Girl, "and put them on my check."

Modesty is a stranger to those who follow the latest styles.

"Line's Busy, Mister"—By Nell Brinkley

"You never knew the one man was laughing at her shoulder and had her indignant and struggling in the strong circle of his arms, while she talked to you."

YOU jammed the humming receiver against your ear with her number dancing at the back of your head, and her name waiting around at the end of your tongue ready to burst out, when her smooth voice came through with a drawling "Hel-lo-o!" And then you waited in the queer, crackling, droning silence during the time when you hold your mouth ready and your eyes roam the ceiling and you make little whirligigs and du-funnies on the paper.

"Can't get 'er!" quoth Love.

After from here to a star and back, while the little bell tinkled faithfully far away on the sill of her flower-grown window, you heard her fluttering voice come jerking over the wire.

And you never knew why you spent such a funny sixty seconds. For her "Ye-e-es" fainted at the end as though she had faded away, her "How are you?" broke out like a bark in your ear, she said no when she "ought to" have said yes; her questions jiggled, and her answers hopped and hurried up desperately at the end, as though she were strangling, and once, in a tense whisper, "Stop it—stop it," came sizzling and drowned in a gurgle.

And while you desperately hurled words into the black mouth of the transmitter during a lull, her only serene sentence ended in thus fashion, "Why, yes; you know-bub" ——— as though a hand had been slapped over her mouth.

After that you yelled to a void that hummed along a little minute and then shut off.

And you never knew.

You never knew that the man was laughing at her shoulder, the man that laughs at you if you only knew; that he had her indignant and struggling in the iron circle of his arms, and that the "bub" that went before the finish was his mouth closing hers.

You never knew.

If you'd watched Love's (the champeen office boy's) face when he said, "Line's busy, Mister," you would have!

A Vegetarian for Economy

He Couldn't Stand a Square Meal When He Got It

By KENNETT HARRIS.

THE tall woman ,with the eyeglasses looked disappointed and slightly disgusted, and the storekeeper squirmed uneasily.

"Do you actually mean to say that I can't get graham flour here?" asked the tall woman.

"I did have a sack once, Marm, but there wasn't no call for it an' it spilled on me," explained the storekeeper. "I've got white and yeller cornmeal an' grits, if them 'ud do you."

"No, thank you," said the woman tartly, and her skirts swished so rapidly as she turned to go that Sol Baker's peanut shucks were caught in a miniature whirlwind and scattered half way to the door.

"They say she won't eat hot biscuit," observed Baker, jerking his head after her. "She allows they ain't healthy. She's as full of notions as a hound pup is of fleas."

"There's a plenty has them notions about vittles," said Eben Baxter. "If anything tastes sort o' good to 'em, they spit it out an' go brush their teeth."

"But there's good in some o' them notions about eating after all," commented Washington Hancock. "There was a feller named Tim Ackerman lived over in Nodaway that tuck up with this yer vegetarian idee. That means that you don't eat no meat—hawg meat ner fresh meat, ner yet chicken."

He Tried It on His Family

"He married one o' the finest, cleverest gals in the country, too, but right from the first he begun drivin' her same's he drove everybody around him, an' not only that, but he'd poke his long nose into the kitchen an' bellyache about the way things was wasted till life wasn't hardly worth livin.'

"Her folks uster get powerful mad an' worked up over it an' they was allus at her to quit him an' come back home. If there hadn't been no young ones, I reckon she'd have done it, for the older he got the worse he got, until finally he read about the vegetarian scheme in a paper that he'd borrered from the hired man.

"That's the reason you get all tuckered out the way you do an' have to string the washin' an' ironin' over in two days,' he says to his wife. 'It's meat eatin', he says. 'It's gorgin' dead flesh like loggers an' hyenies do what's puttin' you out o' whack—an' me, too, an' the young ones. What we was meant to eat was vegetables of this kind,' he says. 'From this out, don't you cook no more side meat nor nothin' o' that kind. Cook up a mess o' beans for supper,' he says. 'We'll have beans an' bread an' we'll eat it with a thankful sperrit.'

"'Not me, I won't,' says the hired man. 'The grub is poor enough now,' he says. 'Half the time there ain't no pie on the table, an' I'm used to pie. But when it comes to doin' without meat, right there I quit.'

"'Quit an' be darned,' says Tim. 'Go an' dig your grave with your teeth, fillin' yourself with what nachally ought to be buried. You eat meat, I'll eat vegetables, an' may-be—'

"'I wish I could quit, too,' whimpers the oldest boy.

"'If you give me any of your sass I'll take the hide off'n you,' says the old man. 'Think of the elerphants,' he says. 'They don't eat meat, an' see how strong they are, an' how smart they are.'

"After a while, Tim grudged any big o' vegeertables that was bringin' a fair price on the market, an' he'd make the kids go out an' get dandelion greens to eke out.

"Some says he had the woman stew a kettle of chopped hay to see how it went. I don't b'lieve that myself, because hay was sixteen dollers a ton that year, if there wasn't no better reason.

"Anyway, the kids got rawder an' weaker all the time an' Mis Ackerman, who was down to skin an' bone herself, couldn't hardly get around, so finly she got des'perit an' one day while Tim was in town she packed up an' put out for her daddy's, Bill Towner's—her an' the young ones.

He Didn't Have to Pay for It

"After awhile, though, he got tired of it an' besides he needed the young ones to hug the taters an' weed the gyarden, not to speak of the way the house had got. He figgered a long while on the cost o' side meat an' sign, an' he finly concluded he might resk promisin' to let his wife have her way. As soon as he made up his mind to that, he hitched up to the wagon an' put out for Hill's.

"He didn't hardly know the woman when he got there, she had fatted up so, an' the young ones had plumped out an' got rosy an' bright-eyed. I reckon they wasn't overly glad to see him. Hill, Mis. Ackerman allus had a great notion of her duty, so she said she'd go back. Bill didn't like to have her go, but he kep' still account o' his daughter an' invited Tim to set up to dinner.

"It was a Sunday an' the dinner was a Sunday dinner. There was roast pork, an' there was fried chicken, an' all kines o' onion dressin' and brown gravy an' sich. Co'se it was sigh vegetarian idees, but Tim allowed that, bein' as he was goin' to give in on the meat to his wife, he might as well have a little bimself. So he sat up an' began to eat.

"About half an hour later Bill says to him, says he, 'Tim,' he says, "I haint never choked a feller off his vittles at my table,' he says, 'but Gosh-all-fishhooks,' shys he, 'if you don't quit pretty soon you'll founder, sure.'

"'Things sutinly do taste good to me,' says Tim, with his mouth full. 'I reckon a little more of that there hawg meat a dressin' won't hurt me, though.'

"Bill shook his head, but he passed it po'k an' Tim kep' on gumshin' until he he claps his hands to his stummick a started hollerin' bloody murder.

"'Well, they toted him to bed an' sent for the doctor, an' the doctor, he done what could, but it wasn't no use, an' about o'clock that night Tim went hence, and 'a sorrowful family lived happy ever aft 'afur as I know."

"I thought you claimed this vegetaris idee was all right," said the storekeeper.

"I said it was sometimes," returned Hancock. "If it hadn't been for vegetaris vittles, Tim wouldn't never have got so's good dinner would kill him."

Vegetables were nice, she admitted, but she balked at them for a steady diet

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

FLOWERS OR CANDY

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

As I have read your article "Good Sporting Little Brother," with Good Luck, I would be very glad to have your advice.

I have not a young lady by calling at her house with a couple of hours. I am interested in that girl, but am still studying her character. Now, she is going to have a birthday party, to which I was invited by herself. Would it be proper to make her a little present, and what is the proper thing to present her with?

M. K. S.

I HOPE you will be successful in your character study, and find out that she is all that you hope for. Send her flowers or a box of candy as a birthday greeting; that will be quite sufficient.

DO NOT SPEAK OF IT

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a young lady eighteen years of age and have become acquainted with a young man at an affair.

This young man has recently become very well acquainted with me and has called at my house every Sunday since our first meeting.

He has promised to marry me and has openly asked my mother for my hand in marriage, stating for me to wait three or four years, until he will be in a position to earn a reasonable salary. At the present he has a very good position and has good prospects. Now, my mother has told him to let me have a security, meaning a ring or any valuable article.

He has as yet not brought me anything, although he has promised me he would bring me a ring.

He has told me time after time that he loves me, and I do see that he cares for me.

Now, Miss Fairfax, is it my place or else my mother's to make speak to him about the security?

CONSTANT READER.

THE mere possession of a ring would not make your hold on him any more secure. Of course, it is nice to have a ring, but it is of small importance. If he loves you, he will be true to you: if he does not, you surely would not wish to hold him unwillingly. Do not speak about the ring or allow your mother to do so.

WRITE AND THANK HIM

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I have not thanked a young man friend for a favor he did for me as he did not call before he left town. He is indebted to me and I consider he should have called. In this case, should I write him a note to thank him?

Thanking you for helping me out of my difficulty.

MIDORA.

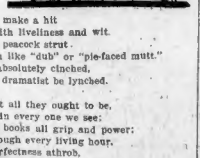
THE fact of his being rude does not justify you in being so. Write and thank him for the favor, but do not make your note other than a polite acknowledgment.

THE CRITIC

By JAMES J. MONTAGUE

THE Critic is a gentleman whose inmost heart is sad
Because the work of other folks is always pretty bad.
Instead of writing plays and books, or prancing round a stage,
Or doing other things in which the rest of men engage,
He waits until he sees them work, and then his heart is wrung
With poignant pain because he can't condemn them to be hung.

If you should happen to enjoy a novel or a play,
You shouldn't say so till you'd read the things the critics say.
For if you disagreed with them, and said so, out of hand,
You'd criticise the critics, which they really could not stand.
I know of one who never has forgiven or forgotten
An irritated leading man who coarsely called him "rotten."



In criticising player-folk the way to make a hit
Is to invest the things you write with liveliness and wit.
Observe the timid ingenue has got a peacock strut.
And call the star some sparkling term like "dub" or "pie-faced mutt."
Announce the failure of the play is absolutely cinched,
And end with the suggestion that the dramatist be lynched.

'Tis well that men and women are not all they ought to be.
That imperfections dwell in swarms in every one we see;
That plays are not all masterful, nor books all grip and power;
That things to grieve about occur through every living hour.
We might enjoy a paradise with perfectness athrob,
But never could, in such a world, a critic hold his job.

Solution of Dr. Eliot's Book Worm Puzzle

IN that puzzling trip of Doctor Eliot's book worm it can be proved that the insect ate his way through 1,250 pages, or 625 leaves of the four books, before the Doctor caught him.

It was told that he started at page 20 in Vol. 1 and bored to page 450 in Vol. 4. The books were placed with their backs to the Doctor and numbered 1, 2, 3, 4, from left to right. Therefore, in starting at page 200 in Vol. 1 and moving toward Vol. 4, he must have bored through the first 200 pages of Vol. 1 and not the last 300 pages, as nine out of ten solvers assumed. He then passed through the 1,000 pages of Vols. 2 and 3 and through the last 50 pages of Vol. 4, which would take him to page 450.

FIGHT FIRE IN TENEMENT TO SAVE 30

Thirty people were rescued through the heroism of policemen, firemen and citizens during a fire in the three-story double wooden tenement buildings at Nos. 499 and 501 Southampton street, South Boston, early to-day.

The rescuers, at the risk of their own lives, fought their way up the stairs, through the blinding smoke and flames, and carried down women and children, many of them partly overcome by smoke.

Daniel Chapman, a real estate man, discovered the fire. He ran to Engine Company 43's house in Andrews square, sounded an alarm from Box 128. Then he returned to the house. There he was joined by Patrolman Daniel Lynch of the Broadway station and John T. Batts of No. 578 Dorchester avenue. Together the three men rushed up the stairs and aroused the many tenants. The house was filled with dense clouds of smoke and they were forced to grope their way with handkerchiefs over their faces to prevent their being suffocated.

Batts forced open the door of the tenement on the first floor and aroused Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Perzy and their four children and helped them to the street. Chapman and Patrolman Lynch smashed open the door of the apartments on the second floor and found Mr. Stanton, his wife and five children almost overcome by smoke. With two children apiece in their arms they led Mrs. Stanton to the street, followed by Stanton, carrying the fifth child.

Patrolman Lynch was told there was a family asleep on the third floor and accompanied by Chapman and some firemen from Engine Company No. 43, he began his way to the top floor, occupied by Mrs. Gallagher and her three children. Lynch found Mrs. Gallagher with her one-year-old child clasped tightly to her breast, with the other two frightened children holding on to the folds of her dress and crying.

Lynch guided the terror-stricken woman to the street, while the children were carried out by the firemen. All were affected by the smoke.

VETERAN GONE; WIFE FEARS FOUL PLAY

James S. O'Connell, 41, fireman at 17 Wilson street, Natick, has been missing from his home since June 11 last, and his wife and friends are of the opinion that he has met with foul play.

He had been employed as an engineer in the Edwards factory at Natick, and was a member of Company E, Sixth Regiment, during the Spanish war.

VANDERBILT AUTO KILLS BLOODED DOG

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 12.—Mrs. Robinson, wife of Colonel C. L. F. Robinson, has reported to the police that a touring car driven by a chauffeur employed by Mrs. French Vanderbilt, while speeding through Kay street a few days ago, killed one of her blooded dogs. The speed of the auto was reported to be in excess of the limit.

LITTLE BOSTON GIRL, DRIVEN TO SEA, IS SAVED

Elizabeth Shepherd.

GLOUCESTER, Aug. 12.—Little Elizabeth Shepherd, nine years of age, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Shepherd of No. 165 Savin Hill avenue, Dorchester, would have been blown to sea and perhaps drowned were it not for her mother's quick wit and her own courage.

Mr. and Mrs. Shepherd and Elizabeth are occupying the Dale cottage at Fresh Water Cove. Yesterday afternoon Elizabeth jumped into a rowboat lying on the beach. The boat was driven out into the cove.

The hardest northwest gale of the season was blowing and the little boat was driven rapidly out into the harbor. A tremendous surf was pounding on the rocks farther out and the sea was running rough and high.

Mrs. Shepherd heard Elizabeth call to her. She saw her little girl stand up in the pitching boat as though she were going to jump out.

"Sit down, Elizabeth," screamed the mother. "Sit down! We'll save you! Don't move!"

Elizabeth, scared as she was, did as her mother told her. She sat down and held to the sides of the rolling, pitching boat. Her father came just then and ran to where two men had a motor boat. He pointed out into the harbor where his child was drifting to sea. When Elizabeth was reached she had been driven nearly a mile from shore.

TO ASK PROBE IN MATTHEWS TAX CHARGES

The tax abatements upon Back Bay and South End property of Ex-Mayor and ex-Finance Commission Chairman Nathan Matthews, abatements which Councilman Frank A. Goodwin of Ward 1 declare were made unjustly and because of political pull, promise to come before the Common Council in the shape of an order requesting the new Finance Commission to investigate the methods of the Board of Assessors in making abatements.

Councilman Goodwin is still hot on the trail of the ex-Mayor and makes more sensational disclosures on the methods employed by the assessors under which for five years the Matthews property has been reduced $117,000 in valuation.

The loss to the city and the saving to ex-Mayor Matthews approximates $13,000 in the five years.

The old finance commission, of which ex-Mayor Matthews approximates $13,000 made an investigation of the assessors' department last Summer and submitted a report under date of November 7, 1908. This report is conspicuous now for its silence on the matter of tax abatements.

Chairman John A. Sullivan of the present Finance Commission declines to be drawn into the Matthews-Goodwin controversy and has "nothing to say" on the probable attitude of the Finance Commission regarding the Goodwin disclosures.

WHITE HOUSE OPEN IN TAFT ABSENCE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Before leaving Washington, President Taft gave orders that the White House should not be closed during his absence, and that the public should be permitted to see as much of the building as possible. The whole first floor is now being visited daily by hundreds. For the first time private parlors, as well as the East Room, are open to the public.

MOTHER AND HER DAUGHTER BURNED

GLOUCESTER, Aug. 12.—Stepping too close to the ignited matches with which her three-year-old baby brother was playing, the clothing of Ada Bouza, the eighteen-year-old daughter of Joseph G. Souza of this city, caught fire and in an instant she was wrapped in flames. Her mother tried to smother the fire with her dress and in doing so was badly burned about the hands. The daughter is not expected to live.

W. T. WALLACE DEAD IN SAN FRANCISCO

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 12.—Former Chief Justice of the State Supreme Court, William T. Wallace, pioneer of the California bar, politician of the stormy old days of Democratic supremacy in this State, eminent man of letters and man of wealth, is dead as the result of a stroke of apoplexy.

LOOK OUT FOR A DOUBLE JINX TO-MORROW

To-morrow is Friday, the Thirteenth. Watch out.

This jinx day and date come with extra strength this year. For to-morrow is the only time the combination comes around in all 1909.

Bostonians may hope to get through the fateful day if they rigidly observe the following "Don'ts" from midnight tonight to midnight to-morrow:

Don't contract any bills.
Don't pay any.
Don't borrow.
Don't lend (this goes on other days, too.)
Don't pet a stray dog; he may follow you home.
Don't go to Beverly to see the President. He has troubles, too.
Don't get wound.
Don't ask the boss for a raise.
Don't be born.
Don't die (This is very unlucky.)

By following the above list with care you ought to escape the chief ills of the hoodoo day. If you follow these rules and still no unlucky, don't think the trouble is with us. Probably you are one of those natural born fall-guys who couldn't win even third prize in a two-handed contest.

CATHOLIC BODY ELECTS OFFICERS

PITTSBURG, Aug. 12.—The Federation of Catholic Societies, which has just closed its eighth annual convention in this city, will meet next year in New Orleans. The officers chosen for the ensuing year are:

President-elect, Edward Feeney, Brooklyn; first vice-president, J. B. Oehlers, Newark, N. J.; second vice-president, Thomas F. Flynn, Chicago; third vice-president, George W. Stenger, St. Paul; fourth vice-president, Harry Wessling, Boston; fifth vice-president, J. J. Hynes, Buffalo; sixth vice-president, Joseph W. Conroy, Cincinnati; secretary, Anthony Matre, St. Louis; treasurer, Mrs. Elizabeth Rodgers, Chicago; marshal, J. Curtis Hayes, Kansas City; cohorbearer, Chief Red Willow, one of the Indian delegates, Pine Ridge Mission, S. D.

STOLE WATERMELON; THREW IT AT WOMAN

Cheered on by a crowd of 500 people, who crowded Chelsea street near the corner of Joiner street, Charlestown, 18-year-old John Sullivan of No. 9 Franklin street, Charlestown, fought Hoosier officers John Walsh and Thomas Sullivan, who were arresting him on the charge of drunkenness, for nearly a half an hour. In the melee both officers were kicked and punched and Walsh lost his helmet. According to the police, Sullivan and a companion stole a watermelon from a Chelsea street fruit store and threw it at a passing woman, knocking her into the street.

SMALL ESTATE LEFT BY JOHN B. MORAN

An inventory of the estate of the late John B. Moran, filed in the Suffolk Registry of Probate by Administrator Brown, shows that he left personal property to the amount of $11,803, and no real estate. The property includes life insurance worth $10,932, cash on hand and salary $871, and insurance on books and other property burned since Mr. Moran's death, $500.

LABOR MEN WILL CELEBRATE TO-NIGHT

Organized for thirty years and still prosperous, fully 5,000 wage workers being enrolled on its affiliated assemblies' rolls of membership, District Assembly 30, Knights of Labor (original) will celebrate the event at Society hall, Roughan building, Charlestown, to-night, with a banquet. The reception committee includes Michael White, Master Workman of the B. & M. Freight Handlers' Assembly; P. J. Flaherty, Master Workman of the E. & M. Freight Clerks' Assembly; John Somers, Master Workman of the Trans-Atlantic Steamship Clerks' Assembly; Michael Carney, financial secretary of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. Freight Handlers' Assembly, and Thomas McCarthy, treasurer of the O'Connell Assembly.

MAINE ICE CORNER A BAD FAILURE

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—A substantial cut in the price of ice was made in Orange, N. J., yesterday by the Mountain Ice Company to meet the reductions made in Newark within the last few days.

The Mountain Ice Company explains its reduction by stating that it had been able to obtain the entire supply cut by Maine speculators, who had hoped early in the season to take advantage of the expected shortage, and had cornered the supply. The failure of the demand left the speculators high and dry, and they were forced to get rid of their corner at a sacrifice.

SOMERVILLE GIRL DIES FROM BURNS

Four-year-old Marguerite Carmolino died in Somerville Hospital early to-day from burns received in playing about a bonfire in Tyler court. Mrs. Josephine Carlin of No. 8 Tyler street smothered the flames in a blanket, but Marguerite had been fatally burned. The girl was the daughter of Vincent Carmolino of No. 42 Vine street, Somerville.

ARREST FREE LANCE MASON

Dr. Darius Wilson of East Foxboro is in trouble again as the result of his work in organizing lodges of the "Ancient Egyptian Rite of Freemasonry." This time Dr. Wilson is under arrest in Newark on the complaint of one of the "members," who charges he paid Dr. Wilson and his son James, who also is under arrest, $7.50, for which he received a Masonic cotton apron, and some secret pass words and signs.

Dr. Wilson organized Commonwealth Lodge in Worcester a year ago, and the lodge now has about sixty members. As a result of his work with his "Egyptian Rite" Masonry, the Masons of the State the stronger. Hutson, of the Clyde line, caused to be passed by the Massachusetts Legislature an act giving them the sole right to the initials "A. F. and A. M." for Masonic lodges.

SHIP HELPLESS ON "SHOALS"

Aeroplane of the Clyde line, according to a wireless message, is anchored twenty-one miles southwest of Diamond Shoals lightship, helpless, with a broken shaft. The ship, from New York to Charleston and Jacksonville, has many passengers and is heavily loaded. Revenue cutters are hurrying along the coast are on the way to aid the ship and seafarers feel that the vessel is in no grave danger, particularly as the last message said she was anchored in twenty-five fathoms of water and all are safe. Wireless reports say the vessel is not in grave danger, particularly as the last message said she was anchored in twenty-five fathoms of water and all are safe. Wireless reports say the Aeroplane at 6 o'clock last night and is standing by to take the passengers off. The Aeroplane is low and this save a large salvage bill.

ABDUL HAMID IS NEAR DEATH

SALONICA, Aug. 12.—The death of former Sultan Abdul Hamid is declared to be imminent to-day, as a result of a severe attack of angina pectoris.

Three surgeons from Constantinople have arrived here, and an operation on the deposed ruler will probably be performed in a desperate effort to save his life.

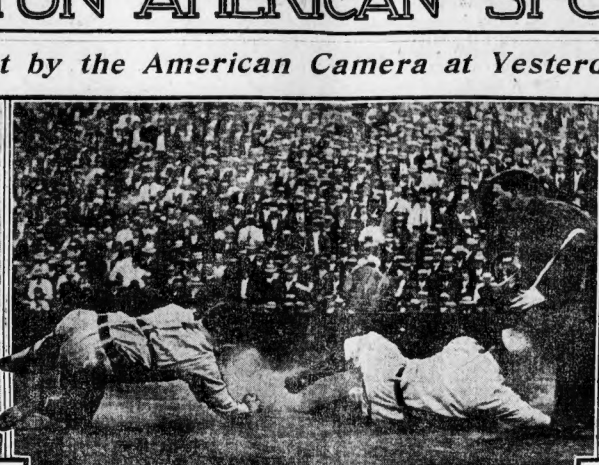
DOVES TACKLE GRIFFITH'S REDS IN FIRST GAME

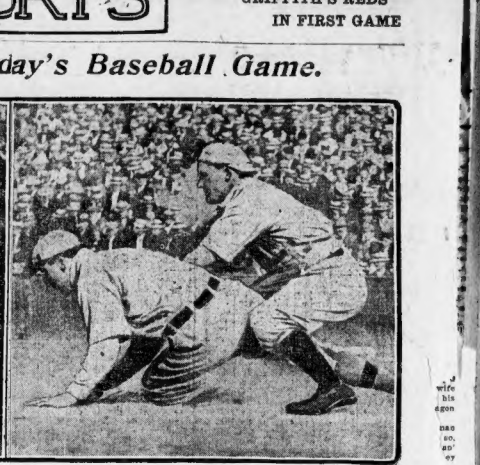
Close Plays Caught by the American Camera at Yesterday's Baseball Game.

In the third inning a queer play was pulled off. Harry Lord beat out a bounder in front of the plate, but Easterly tried to get him at first and threw over Stovall's head. The ball went on out to right field and Briscoe Lord, the Cleveland right fielder, whipped it over to Perring. He made a neat throw and nipped the Red Sox captain by a good margin.



PHOTOS. BY J. RUTTENBERG.

In the second inning of the Nap-Red Sox game yesterday Heinie Wagner pickled a triple to the left field bleachers. He scored a moment later on Stahl's long sacrifice. Hinchman, the Nap left fielder, whipped the ball to the plate and it took some close work on Silk O'Loughlin's part to decide the play.



Larry Lajoie was caught at the plate in the sixth inning. With the Nap leader on third, Perring rolled one to McConnell, and by one of his good throws, Amby nailed his man at the plate, Carrigan getting the put out.

Baseball News and Notes

Neal Ball is called the Triple Play Man now on along the circuit when he appears with the Naps.

* * *

Ernest Courtney, who was released by Jersey City not very long ago, is getting great hits for Providence. He is hitting in timely fashion and playing a nice fielding game.

* * *

According to report it developed in St. Louis the Pirates would get Fred Tenney for an outfielder plus another good man. Pinney, late of Detroit emanate from the Mound City.

* * *

Think of it. Old Jimmy Barrett, he with the uncertain legs, is keeping Milwaukee up in the American Association.

* * *

The fielders say that George Stone's hard rape to the infield have a sharp English to them, imparted by a peculiar swing of the bat.

* * *

About this time of the season let the big teams look out for laid up players. The whole leagues are feeling the effects of having the best talent on the hospital list. It may be the wholesale outing being done that they owe all laying for that spurt during the home stand.

* * *

Chance, the Cubs' manager is said be hunt on to Heulbach now, but his thirteen straight wins. He was going to put the player on the market last spring.

* * *

Fans have no kick coming on the ball, still the tax to get into the ball parks remaining the same as under the Dingley bill.

* * *

Lots of people would like to get a vacation, but not the kind that Tim Hurst has been forced to take.

* * *

Jim Jeffries selected a good time to go to Europe. There is not much room for fight news now that two fast baseball scraps are on tap in the major leagues.

* * *

The Cleveland are the quietest lot of ball players in either major league. They seldom kick at decisions.

* * *

Mike Donlin has decided not to sail for Europe just yet. Will McGraw sign him when the Giants come home?

* * *

The Western teams of the American League are having a hard time with the Eastern clubs this year. The Red Sox, Athletics and Highlanders are making things hot for them and are converting the Western fans that they haven't a corner on the best playing ball of the year.

* * *

Up in Portland the fans are hoping that the game between the Red Sox and an All-Boston team will materialize after the regular season closes.

* * *

Out in Chicago they are commenting on the large crowd the Doves drew when they played the Cubs. That speaks well for the fighting powers recognized in the cellar team.

* * *

Mike Hines, who caught Whitney, considered the speediest pitcher in the leagues, twenty years ago, when both were members of the Boston National League, has been released loose.

* * *

How they do rise and fall. Walter Blair, the Highlander catcher who did most of the work behind the bat last year and who was looked upon as one of the coming backstops, has been released to the Newark team of the Eastern League.

* * *

The Highlanders apparently have a cleverly arranged scheme for beating their rivals next season. Apparently they will attempt to secure a corking minor league pitchers. Yesterday it was announced they had purchased Pitcher Fell of the Newark team. That makes more than a score of pitchers they have signed.

* * *

Wonder if Johnny Evers didn't have his fingers crossed when he predicted the Cubs would win the pennant. If King is severely hoping and pulling for the Cubs he's passed the test.

* * *

One Frank Schulte is receiving much attention from the fans these days. Let a man batter one against the fence or over occasionally and the boys are liable to think he equals Ty Cobb or Joe Jackson.

* * *

President Ban Johnson especially states that he has relieved and not suspended Tim Hurst. It's like this. If his official statements are as pieced in the newspaper stories then President Johnson will probably call it a suspension. But if not it will remain just an ordinary relief.

* * *

President Murphy has installed a system of announcing the batteries so that there should be no mistake. Ordinarily when a substitute batsman or pitcher is sent in the umpire bawls some name which cannot be distinguished—if he bawls at all—and you know no more than before the announcement was made. President Murphy has armed his chief usher with a megaphone and at the substitution of a player the usher goes through the grand stand informing the people who the substitute is. In that method everybody is informed of the identity of the new player.

* * *

Amherst Putman has been suspended for thirty days by Manager Carrington of the Louisville club for inefficient work. Rose will keep in shape by swinging the family washing machine on Monday.

* * *

The Doves have refused to exercise an option on Second Baseman Cranston of the Memphis team. He can't be such a much if the Doves can afford to turn him down.

* * *

"Big Bill" Chappelle has been released to the Waterbury team, fourth in the Connecticut League race. Things haven't been breaking right for the big fellow.

Notes of the Red Sox Game

The Naps were robbed of a run by plain hard luck in the very first round. Lord and Stovall singled and then, after Hinchman had fanned, Lajoie ripped a single past Harry Lord. Briscoe Lord, who was running to third, tried his best to jump over the ball but he was a bit on foot and of course was out. He was almost certain to score on the hit, as he had a good start.

* * *

The Red Sox were the first to score. Wagner slammed a corking triple to the left field bleachers in the second frame and scored on Stahl's long sacrifice fly. It was a clean play for Hinchman made a swift throw to the plate to catch the man.

* * *

Long hits were certainly plentiful. Birmingham, Stahl, Wagner and Briscoe Lord all got triples and Birmingham and Lajoie hit for doubles.

* * *

B. Lord pulled off a pretty nice play in the third round when he doubled Carrigan off first after he had caught Niles's fly.

* * *

It appeared that the Naps might get the game tied up in the last inning. Birmingham cracked out a single and then Neal Ball forced him. Flick batted for Joss and base.

singled. They moved up a base on Arellanes's bad throw to second to catch Ball napping, but Arellanes tightened up and didn't allow another hit.

* * *

Niles, Wagner, Stahl and McConnell did the scoring for the locals. Easterly and Perring did the run getting for the Naps.

* * *

* * *

Niles ran into the left field bleachers in trying to catch Lajoie's long two-bagger and ripped his face open on the edge of the boards. He didn't leave the game though and did some good work after the injury.

* * *

Terry Turner is suffering with a broken finger and Catcher Easterly, while not out of the game, has a badly bumped knee. He received his injury when a foul tip caught him on the joint in New York game.

* * *

Elmer Flick batted for Joss in the last inning and scratched a single over second base.

MARATHON RACE AT LOWELL SEPT. 9

The national Marathon race for professional runners will be held over the Merrimac Valley course at Lowell on September 9. It was originally intended that the race should take place in New York. At a conference between the board of governors of the Lowell Automobile Club and Charley White of New York yesterday it was decided to hold the race in conjunction with the five days' race meet of the American Automobile Association and the American Federation of Motorcyclists.

ALFONSO AS CHALLENGER.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—Reports are current in yachting circles here that King Alfonso of Spain is a possible challenger for the America cup.

This rumor apparently is based on the fact that the King during the construction of his yacht Hispania, which was built in Spain from designs by Fife, the English designer, evinced curiosity regarding the conditions governing the contests for this trophy.

DOVES' NEW CATCHER JUST IN PRO. RANKS

Baldwin, the new catcher of the Boston Nationals, secured last Sunday by President Dovey, never played professional ball with any team but the Canton, Ohio, club. In 1907 he started with that club, which was then in the Central league. The Canton club is now a member of the Ohio and Pennsylvania league. Baldwin has been the mainstay of the Canton club behind the bat all the season, having caught seventy games. He is only twenty-one years old. He is five feet eleven inches tall, weighs 160 pounds, and hit for .285 this year. He is a right-handed batter and thrower.

BALL GROUNDS BURN UP.

SOCIETY AWAITS HORSES

By ELIZABETH ELLIOTT.

Younger members of the North Shore Summer colony are eagerly anticipating the annual horse show and flat hurdle races to be held on Crescent Beach at Magnolia, Aug. 28th, and all sorts of clever horsemanship stunts are being diligently practiced.

The races will take place at 2:30, and all there is of society along the shore will be there, for this is by far the jolliest and the smartest event of the Summer.

Miss Rhemora Sears, who is at Newport, is to take a prominent part, as is also Miss Alice Thorndike, her friend, who has just returned from Europe.

The judges will be Dr. Samuel Hopkins Gerard Bennet and George Mansfield, M. D., of the Myopia Hunt.

The names of many of the most famous cleverest horsemen and horsewomen of the entire New Hidden Club set are on the list.

* * *

Dr. and Mrs. L. C. McCready of Jamaica Plain have as their guest, Miss Margaret Wright of Mt. Royal Terrace, Baltimore.

Newport's fancy dress ball this season has been arranged for Friday evening, August 27. The ball will be given by Mr. and Mrs. Reginald C. Vanderbilt at Sandy Point farm. There is quite a flutter in society over the event, and scarcely anything else is given over to dressmakers and costumers. Individual taste has free play, for the costumes of no particular period have been set upon. A fancy quadrille and a minuet will be features.

The results of the competition between the millionaire flower exhibitors at Lenox yesterday caused a deal of good natured excitement and comment which is not likely to die away at once, for the exhibition is still going on. Miss Adele Kneeland led in the floral exhibition with thirty-eight beautiful varieties; Mrs. John L. Farquhar Small second, but was first with her asters. Mrs. Edward R. Wharton displayed the finest and largest lot of perennials and took the first prize, while second was won by Miss Heloise Meyer of Boston. In the splendid array of roses Mrs. Mrs. John Sloane stood first, with Charles Lanier second and Mrs. Meyer third. The first premium for gladioli was received by Mrs. John S. Parsons, and the second one by Mrs. Robert Winthrop, who also received a prize for a vase of sweet peas and foliage. In the close competition over the zebloss, Mrs. John E. Parsons stood first, Charles Lanier second and Mrs. Robert Winthrop third. Spencer P. Shotter of Shadow Brook made the finest display of vegetables, having no less than twenty varieties, while Mrs. Robert Winthrop came second with one. Mrs. John E. Alexander took the first premium on dinner table decorations of outdoor flowers, and she was first in her exhibit of outdoor fruit, her melons growing out of doors were also judged to be the best shown. Among those who were present to enjoy the delightful display and take sides in the awarding of prizes were Mr. and Mrs. Richard C. Dixey, Mrs. Rosamond Dixey, Mrs. Oscar Iselin, Mr. and Mrs. Grant Forster, Mr. and Mrs. Meredith Howland, Mr. and Mrs. Newbold Morris, Mrs. Richard Irvin Dodge and Mrs. Harris Fahnestock, Mr. and Mrs. John G. PROSPERITY HAS ARRIVED FOR THE WONDER GIRL

The Wonder Girl a fine car drives
Since Percy's father's business thrives.

And Jack may feast the Wonder Girl,
Altho' in stocks he takes a whirl.

In fact upon the sluggish tide
A frill of coupons seems to glide.

But tho' Jack's millions come in haste
He always finds a way to—waist.

The Eviction

By W. S. BLUNT

UNRULY tenant of my heart,
Full fain would I be quit of thee;
I've played too long a lusting part,
Thou bring'st me neither gold nor fee.

'Tis time thou shouldst thy holding yield,
Thy will and mine no longer meet,
With cockle least thou sown my field
With squanderings all the public street,

Thy presence doth disturb my pride,
Let me be owner of my own;
I'll fling thee with thy goods outside
And bar re-entry with a stone.

Begone and hide thee from my face,
I will not see the chilling there;
Away, to live in my disgrace!
Away, to die in thy despair!

O, impotence of human will!
The law is mine, the fault is thee,
And yet in vain I serve the writ,
In vain I scourge thee with decree.

For, lo! in stillness of the night,
Overturning stone and plank and door,
Thou'rt come with thy lost tenant right
And hast possession as before.

THE PERFUME OF THE LADY IN BLACK

SYNOPSIS.

THE chief characters in "The Perfume of the Lady in Black" figured in "The Mystery of the Yellow Room," a detective story by Gaston Leroux, which was published serially in the Sunday AMERICAN just prior to this story. Mathilde Stangerson had been strangely attacked in her room, and Rouletabille, a young reporter, and Frederick Larsan, a noted Paris detective, were sent to investigate the mystery. Rouletabille noted that Larsan had made the attack because he was desirous to break in the door of her room, yet her assailant was nowhere in sight and there was no means by which he could have escaped.

Rouletabille showed when Robert Darzac, the suitor of Mlle. Stangerson, was placed on trial charged with having made the attack that Mlle. Stangerson had found Larsan in her room, that he had tried to plead with her, and that he had then clubbed her. She did want her father to know of it, because she had, a number of years previously, been engaged to Larsan; had found that he was a penniless adventurer as Ballmeyer, and had left him.

To hide the affair, she asked herself to her room. Later she was seized with a nightmare and discharged a revolver near her bedside. This resulted in the breaking in of the door of the Yellow Room.

Mlle. Stangerson still maintained secrecy in order to hide the details of her escapade with Larsan, or Ballmeyer, from her father.

While Darzac was on trial, Rouletabille appeared in court, forced Larsan to flee and then revealed his solution of the mystery of The Yellow Room. Later Larsan was reported to have lost his life at sea.

In "The Perfume of the Lady in Black," Mlle. Stangerson married Robert Darzac, Rouletabille disappeared after the ceremony and the bride has been a sad, broken hearted person ever since. Suspicions of the writer.

Rouletabille and Sainclair went to Depot 3 in pursuit of "The Perfume of the Lady in Black," and Rouletabille learns that the Lady in Black plans to leave in his mother, in none other than Miss. Darzac.

"The Lady in Black."

In another half hour we were at Epinay-sur-Orge, at the end of the line des Marrouiers on the carriage rolled over the pavements of the little, quiet, empty place, as the conductor announced his arrival by cracking his whip and filling the dead town with the noise of the snapping leather.

Soon we heard the sound of a bell—that of the school. Rouletabille told me—and then everything was quiet again. We alighted, and the horse and carriage stood motionless upon the street. The driver got down as soon as Père Simon was out of the way.

And he set his teeth.

"I believe that I am going crazy," he said with a short laugh. "But I can't help my feelings. They are stronger than I am. I think that I am going to see the prior—where she waited for me! I had been living only in the hope of seeing her and after she had gone, although I had promised to be good and sensible, I fell into such a despondent state that after each of her visits, they feared for my health. They were only able to save me from utter prostration by telling me that if I fell ill they would not let me see her any more. So from one visit to another, I had her memory and her perfume for comfort me. Never having seen her dear face distinctly, and being so weak that I was ready to swoon with joy every time she pressed me to her heart I lived less with her image than with her heavenly odor. Often on the days after she had come and gone, I would escape from my comrades during the recreation hours and steal to the parlor, and when I found it empty, I would draw deep breaths of the air which she had breathed and remain there like a little devotee, and leave with a heart filled with the sense of her presence. The perfume which she always used and which was indissolubly associated in my mind with her, was the most delicate, the most subtle, and the sweetest odor I have ever known, and I never breathed it again in all the years which followed until the day I spoke of it to you, Sainclair. You remember, the day we first went to the Glandier?"

"You mean the day you met Mathilde Stangerson?"

"That is what I mean," responded the lad in a trembling voice.

"As if I had known at that moment that Professor Stangerson's daughter, as the result of her first marriage in America, had had a child, a son, who would have been, if he had lived, the same age as Rouletabille; perhaps I would have at least comprehended his emotion and grief, and the strange resignation which he showed to pronounce the name of Mathilde Stangerson there at the school, to which, in the past, had come so often the Lady in Black."

There was so long silence, which I finally broke.

"And you have never known why the Lady in Black did not return?"

"Oh!" cried Rouletabille, "I am sure that she did return. It was I who was not here."

"Who took you away?"

"No one; I ran away."

"Why? To look for her?"

"It is Père Simon. Ah, how old he has grown! He is almost bald. Listen. This is the hour when he goes to superintend the study hour of the younger boys. Everyone is in the classroom at this time. Oh, we are very lucky! There is only Père Simon in the lodge—that is, if she is not dead. At any rate, she can't see us from here. But wait—here is Père Simon back again!"

And he cast a quick look towards the building behind him.

"No—no! It is all right—beside the mortuary. There is the same door at the right through which she came. We shall go there as soon as Père Simon is out of the way."

And he set his teeth.

"I believe that I am going crazy," he said with a short laugh. "But I can't help my feelings. They are stronger than I am. I think that I am going to see the prior—where she waited for me! I had been living only in the hope of seeing her and after she had gone, although I had promised to be good and sensible, I fell into such a despondent state that after

To-day's Best Story

A man went into a drug store and bought a bottle of some patent stuff, which was advertised thus:

NO MORE COUGHS.
NO MORE COLDS.
$1 THE BOTTLE.

Three days later he went to the drug gist, complaining that his throat was stopped up, and that he could scarcely breathe. "I've drunk all that patent cough mixture," he said.

"Drunk it!" yelled the druggist. "Why, that's an india-rubber solution to put on the soles of your boots!"

UNAVOIDABLY DETAINED

A well-known general tells the following story:

One day he received a telegram from a subordinate who was injured in a railroad accident while on furlough, which read: "Will not report to-day, as expected, on account of unavoidable circumstances."

The tone of the message was not satisfactory to the general, and he wired at once in reply: "Report as ordered, or give reasons."

Within an hour the following message came back over the wire from the hospital: "Pain off—can't ride; legs off—can't walk. Will not report unless you insist."

DISTINGUISHED.

His savoir-faire, to say nothing of his tact and finesse, impressed the young woman.

"Evidently," she said, "you have been thrown in contact with an unusually large and varied assortment of people."

"Well," he admitted, "among the members of the police force I have the reputation of being the most persistent motor-scorcher in the country."

AND SILENCE ENSUED.

A meddlesome woman, riding in a tramway, began meeting at a young mother's awkwardness with her baby. "I declare," she snorted, "a woman ought never to have a baby until she knows how to hold it."

"Nor a tongue either," quietly responded the young mother.

SCIENCE AND ADVENTURE are combined in the great article in the SUNDAY AMERICAN by the leaders of the five greatest expeditions to find the North Pole.

WHO WINS CHOWDER PRIZE?

The appended chowder information is interesting, although it may not properly belong in the contest for the cash prize clam chowder recipe. Many a good cook may have stopped a harsh word or an sworn softly under his breath at some untoward incident attending the brewing of the chowder, but if he had only said "by chowder," he would have been officially beyond the pale of profanity.

Out in Waterville, Kan. (where they wouldn't know a clam if they met it walking down Main street), it has been ruled that "by chowder" is a proper ladylike explative. A new law by the City Council makes anything stronger than "by chowder" on the street punishable by fine.

Now, pardon this language. If you want a good beer to make chowder, just read these cuties for the Hicks $5 prize, to which the AMERICAN has added another $5, by clowder!

CHOWDER WITH CREAM.

Try this, Mr. Hicks, you will find the chowder nutritious and digestible. It is absolutely necessary to have fresh clams for best results. Open clams, remove all grit, rim, and dark parts. Three should be one quart of clam meat. Chop fine and strain clam water; add to clam water six full-sized potatoes and three onions, three ounces of nice sweet butter; cover with boiling water and season to taste with salt and pepper; let boil until potatoes are tender; add clams and boil three minutes; add one pint thin cream or cream, let all come to boil and serve hot with crackers. MRS. C. L. CAREY.

East Surry, Maine.

THIS LIKE MOTHER'S!

How does this compare with the chowder your mother used to make, Mr. Hicks? Slice one-half pound of fat salt pork into a frying pan and fry out nearly to crispness; when this is tried out, add four medium onions sliced thin; let this cook about five minutes, then add one quart of boiling water; add seven or eight medium potatoes sliced thin; cook until potatoes are tender; then add one quart of milk and when clams are done add a quart of milk and let come to boil; season with salt and pepper and let boil up and let stand four or five hours at least before you leave the pork in, as that flavors it. Just before serving add six common crackers split and laid on top.

Asbury Grove, Hamilton, Mass. MRS. C. RICHARDS.

GOOD END.

To prepare really good clam chowder cut one-half pound of fat pork in dice, try out in iron kettle, add three onions, sliced, and let brown; add three potatoes and boil in enough water to cover until soft; add one pint milk, season to taste with salt and pepper and let steam about ten minutes; add one pound or common crackers, rolled, and let stand five minutes; serve hot. This is also good with one can of tomatoes added. MRS. J. B. WEILER.

No. 83 Savin Hill avenue, Dorchester.

IDEAL CLAM CHOWDER.

To make ideal clam chowder try out about one-fourth pound of pork; then add one quart of sliced potatoes, 1½ quarts of clams in layers; then add just enough water to cover. When done set on back of stove and fifteen minutes before serving add one pint of milk. Be sure and use one pint of clam juice; add salt and pepper to the taste. When the potatoes are done have two tablespoonfuls of flour wet with milk and add, then add one quart of milk; let come to a boil up once. Skim off the pieces of pork and serve.

TEXTILE MEN SEE VICTORY IN WAGE FIGHT

NEW BEDFORD, Aug. 12.—Textile workers here are confident that their demands for restoration of the wage paid previous to the 10 per cent. reduction made eighteen months ago will be granted without serious resistance by the manufacturers here. They base this belief upon the new tariff bill which they say is so favorable to the mill men that the latter will not wish to risk the danger of a prolonged strike. The textile men say a refusal of their demands will mean a strike.

On the other hand, Otis N. Pierce, president of the local manufacturers' association, says the mills are earning only fair dividends and that conditions do not warrant increased wages.

Secretary Ross of the Spinners' Union said today:

"The wage question has been under consideration by the Textile Council for the past six months. Owing to various considerations, the tariff matter particularly, the demand has been postponed, but it was understood we would bring up the matter once the tariff was settled. I see nothing in the situation which discourages the hope that the advance will be conceded.

"The building of so many new mills shows the confidence of the public in a continuance of prosperity. If conditions were not good and promising, it would not be possible to promote so many new enterprises, with stock commanding a premium before a stone is laid on the foundation.

"I hope the unpleasant consequences that would follow refusal will not be hazarded, and that the advance which seems so reasonable to the textile workers will be granted without serious reports."

Frederick B. Macy, treasurer of the Soule mill, said to-day:

"It cannot be denied that at present business is good, and with the tariff settled and the good demand for cotton goods, that business is going to continue to be good.

"But there are other factors which enter into the situation than the demand for goods, and the greatest one at present is the high price of cotton. If I should ask for our cloth prices which the present condition of the cotton market warrants, our selling agents would laugh in my face. They simply would not pay the price.

"We have not sold anything for a month, and we can't say how long before we will sell any of our goods. We must wait until the cloth market adjusts itself."

HUGHES TELLS WHY CHESTER GILLETTE DIED

ALBANY, Aug. 12.—It was declared today, for the first time, that Chester Gillette, who suffered the death penalty for the murder of "Billie" Brown, his sweetheart—a crime which caused international interest because of its tragic features—brought about his own death by confession on the eve of execution.

Governor Hughes, troubled for fear Gillette might be wrongfully punished, was about to commute his sentence, when he learned that Gillette had just confessed.

A Seattle dispatch, to-day gives the following story told by Governor Hughes at the luncheon tendered to him there by New York Commissioners Wiley and Ashley. Governor Hughes relating the story to the other executives present.

"After the conviction and sentence of Gillette a woman, his mother, called at my office one day. She had the cartage of a man, a well-balanced, legal, searching mind, and when she came to me saying that she wanted me to forget that she was his mother and simply to hear her present the facts in the case from which she would convince me he should not die, I gave her the two hours she asked of me.

"She asked me to go over her own statement and over the court records, and I did. I spent all of that evening and all of the next day giving a careful examination to all the manuscript submitted to me, including the appeal to the court of appeals. My conclusions were that I believed Gillette guilty, and I refused to stay the execution.

"But thought of that mother and the effort she had made to save her son impressed me and made me feel and doubt my own judgment. As the day approached for the execution of Gillette, the matter preyed on my mind and disturbed my sleep and my work.

"Finally, I came to the conclusion that I had made a mistake, that there was an element of doubt that Gillette was the murderer, and with my mind made up to commute the death sentence I called up the warden of Auburn prison, where Gillette was spending his last night.

"I will never forget the sensation as long as I live. The warden told me that Gillette had made a confession that afternoon.

"That night I went to bed and slept soundly. It was my first refreshing sleep for a long time."

15 CENTS a COPY ALL NEWSSTANDS

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Aug. 12.—Dr. Edward Schaeffer, the pistol expert who with the aid of two skeleton skulls and a small revolver, began late yesterday to demonstrate why he believed it impossible for Lieutenant Sutton, prostrate on the ground, to shoot himself, was called for cross-examination to-day at the inquiry. This time he was supplied with a heavy service revolver whose trigger resistance was much greater than that of the average weapon.

Again Dr. Schaeffer lay prone upon a table, and holding the longbarrelled gun at the angle described in previous testimony, tried to snap it against his head.

The muscles used in pulling the trigger, namely those of the forearm, the doctor said, were rendered almost useless because of the apparent cramped and twisted position of hand and arm. The fact, he declared, that two men were said to have been on Sutton's prone body would make the suicide all the more difficult.

Under the cross-examination of Attorney Birney the expert held to his belief that it was practically a physical impossibility for Sutton to have fired a bullet taking the course that this one did back of and well downward and lodging in the cerebellum. He again took up the skull and wielded into a mass of technical terms while the lay members of the court, attorneys and spectators tried to grasp it all.

Under the questioning of Adams's attorneys the big navy pistol was once more brought into play and held in all sorts of positions.

The case was then adjourned until tomorrow, when the attorneys will sum up.

REAL ESTATE MART SHOWING DULNESS

Sales of real estate reported to-day were not up to the usual good volume, and the dullness of the part few days still continues.

Among the sales reported to-day was that of the property at No. 90 Warrenton street, near Eliot street, South End, which has been conveyed by Frank W. Dana et ux. to James B. Hutchinson. The estate, which comprises a five-story brick building and 3,042 square feet of land, is assessed on a total valuation of $21,000, of which $10,000 is on the land.

In the same district the three-story brick house and 2,500 square feet of land on the northerly corner of Appleton street, No. 1 Worthington street, near Greenwich street, Roxbury. This estate is assessed at a total of $5,900, $2,000 being on the land.

Christian H. Lythaus has purchased through the agency of Roy A. Compson from the Loring estate the two three-apartment frame houses at Nos. 3 and 5 Symmes Park, Dorchester. The property is taxed on a total valuation of $7,800, $2,000 being on the land. Mr. Lythaus has borrowed $5,000 thereon.

Mary E. Tobin has sold to Mary A. Dolan the three-story and basement octagon-front brick house and 1,500 square feet of land at No. 49 Westminster street, near Greenwich street, Roxbury. This estate is assessed for a total of $8,900, $3,000 being on the land.

In Union Pacific there are sales that the Street accepts as being due to disappointment at the postponement of the dividend meeting. Some go so far as to say there would be an increase and not even an extra payment will be made when the regular dividend is declared. Directors of the company say anything under 250 for Union Pacific is cheap.

In spite of the pronounced enthusiasm of insiders, it is most reasonable to suppose that they are glad to see the market rest occasionally, and thus give them an opportunity of adding to their already large lines of Union Pacific, Southern Pacific and Steel in particular.

It must be remembered that the corn crop is not entirely safe. Early frost or any extremely hot, dry and cool would change the size of the crop materially. But all advices point to a fine crop of fruit this year and is willing to accept the chances. They think, however, that the Wall street this year is done with the understanding of bear campaigns, droughts, floods and sudden deaths have not been estimated in the stock. Whether the street is right in figuring on a crop of 3,000,000,000 bushels of corn is a question that can only be decided when the time comes from now, but it seems conservative, in view of all the facts and reports, to expect 3,000,000,000 bushels, and such a crop is enough to justify a large amount of enthusiasm in the stock market.

Reports of the Hill lines are excellent because of the crop outlook. Brokers having lines in the Northwest say that they are receiving some very heavy orders for Great Northern and Northern Pacific.

The strength of Chesapeake & Ohio and Louisville & Nashville is somewhat related because the principal owners in both are associated in the Hawley pool. This is no proof that they will be merged. It is known that the Chesapeake & Ohio people were soon to get control of Cincinnati, Chicago & Louisville, which will furnish the missing link between the seaboard and the grain fields of the Northwest. This deal, it is said, has been practically made and will be announced in time to let Chesapeake & Ohio have a great profit out of the huge grain crop this year. At any rate, the buying of Chesapeake & Ohio is most confident, and great enthusiasm prevails among the pool members.

Strength of the copper stocks is a feature of both the inside market and the curb. The Amalgamated Copper Company has a short interest of huge proportions for several months. The losses on some of these short contracts run as high as 20 per cent. Persons who sold these contracts unfortunately took it for granted that the prices would follow facts. They forgot the strength of the party in charge of Amalgamated. It would be possible worth $40 a share on merit, in the present condition of the metal market. It will undoubtedly go very much higher as a result of manipulation. The men who are advancing the prices have things in their favor just now, partly because of the general strength of the stock market and the beneficial strength of the copper metal market; but more because they have changed the leadership of New York metal interests to the copper corporation's benefit. One direct result of this has been a reduction in the surplus reserve of copper for daily announcing to 32,000,000 pounds in spite of the enlarged output. The first result of this announcement was seen in the higher prices in London for copper metal.

There is little doubt that a campaign in coppers is at hand. The curb has for some time been the place for the preliminary action. This is especially true in the gilt edged copper shares. Ray Consolidated has gone to record prices and Miami has been at high figures. It is well known that the Ohio Copper stock is worth far more than its present selling price, but the recent sales of the stock have frightened off investors. It has been suggested in this column that the Standard Oil people were manoeuvring Ohio Copper in the hope of getting control. It is well known that they want control of the boys, but one hesitates to accuse Standard Oil people of committing grand larceny in the clumsy style in vogue in connection with F. Augustus Heinze's Ohio stock.

The Wilson Company will, of course, be compelled to return all this stock to the street, and last purchases of a big number of considerable importance to begin with. It would be no surprising if Wilson Street "helped" the trust company buy back this stock by advancing the price.

Strength of the gas stocks is a feature. Consolidated has practically cleared up the rebates and they were declining. This is accepted by the professionals as definite evidence that the Standard Oil headquarters that the general market is all right. Consolidated Gas has often been advanced as the signal of good cheer. Earnings of the Consolidated companies indicate that only the grade in this stock up to, say $200 per share is safe. It is suggested that even when very large extra dividends must be paid there will be enough left for the stockholders. People's Gas looks ready for a sharp advance.

$ $ $

Accumulation of Interborough-Metropolitan preferred continues in the face of public statements by insiders of its lack of value. There is considerable mystery in regard to what the pool in the stock is really trying to do. To an outsider it looks as if their idea was to depress everything connected with local tractions and thus give themselves an opportunity to purchase at far less than real value the Metropolitan and Third Avenue lines which they are offered for sale by the courts.

NEW RECORDS IN 18 STOCKS

By T. C. SHOTWELL.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—Eighteen standard stocks in Wall Street to-day made new high records in the first few minutes of trading. Most impressive of these were Pennsylvania, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Steel and Copper. This advance was considered all the more significant because in only one or two cases did the short interests amount to anything.

The buying was done for the account of the largest interests in the street, and they actually want the stocks. Business was well distributed throughout the list. The hundred-share public was not present.

The enthusiasm extended to the curb, where Ohio Copper was a feature, with a former record of 5¾, and buying supposed to be for the account of the Windsor House crowd, which will be supplied to replace the Helmz stocks, concerning which there have been several arrests made. Ray Consolidated and Nevada Consolidated were record-breakers on the curb.

LEXINGTON PARK IS IDEAL PLACE

Out in Lexington Park, under the shade of the mammoth pines, twenty degrees cooler than in the sweltering city, is the ideal place to spend the warm afternoons and evenings. The open air theatre, with Lyon & Winnes's Imperial Orchestra giving "open" concerts twice each day, dancing pavilion, restaurant, casino, athletic grounds, toboggan slide, merry-go-round, arcade and the great zoological garden and its wonderful baby animals, provide recreation for everybody. The famous trolley ride to and from the park is not the least of the features, traversing the Paul Revere route through the most historic region of America. The vaudeville this week includes the Three Marvelous Mellis, Howe and Edwards, Morarto and Rosa, Agnes Farrell and Frederick Marshal. The theatre is free afternoons. Practically everything in the park is free with SUNDAY AMERICAN free tickets.

NEW MARK IN LAKE COPPER

STATE STREET, Aug. 12.—The speculative fever is on and more public interest was manifested in mining shares this forenoon than at any time since the bull movement started in. Lake Copper was the card and recorded a 2¾ point advance to 36⅜, thus establishing a new record price. The buying was largely by Gay and many orders were executed for Michigan account. Irving J. Sturgis of the firm of Gay & Sturgis is now at the Lake property and has wired some very favorable impressions of the property.

The tone of the whole mining share list was strong, and each successive day sees the same condition of affairs. Copper Range took a moderate turn on buying by Hayden, which put the price up to 63½. North Butte was a trifle heavy and eased off, but appears as if the shorts were being driven in, in this specialty. U. S. Smelting was also strong, as was Centennial. To the industrial list those Machinery rose 1¼ points, to 63.

It is announced that subscriptions to the newly organized Indiana Mining Company were largely in excess of the amount of stock offered.

On the curb the Hayden, Stone stocks had conspicuous advances this afternoon, although the tone to the whole list was strong. Ray Consolidated sold up to China 13 to 8⅝, and this carried Ohio Copper with a series of sales to 5½.

Moving Pictures in History

Truth Is More Marvellous Than Fiction—And Every True Historical Picture Is Encouraging

Copyright, 1909, by American-Journal-Examiner

We have asked one of our artists, Mr. Carter, to make some pictures showing how human beings have progressed and moved. Two of the pictures we print here. They illustrate simply, vividly, the fact that MAN MUST SOLVE HIS OWN PROBLEMS, CONQUER THE EARTH MAKE HIMSELF THE RULER OF HIS DESTINY. This he will do more and more, as intellect replaces superstition, as logic and truth crowd out brutal bigotry.

These pictures are better than any words; as encouraging as any sermon.

How the Queen of Sheba Went to See Solomon

Solomon in all his glory lived in a miserable house, without plumbing, without a bathtub.

The Queen of Sheba, when she went to see him, bumped along on a camel's back, or was carried, perhaps in a palanquin, held up by men or beasts, with a rocking, seasick motion.

How the American Wright Brothers Went to See the King of Spain

What a change to-day, when the driveling little King of Spain, with his antiquated, idiotic ideas of his "divine right to rule and tax better men," gazes upward at the Wright brothers in their flying machine—it and they products of modern thought and modern methods!

Truly, the world does move, as old Galileo whispered under his breath when they made him recant his statement that the earth went around the sun.

The moving pictures of history are beautiful and encouraging. Man's thought will soar above the old, dead thought, above the marshes of superstition, hatred and ignorance, in the clear sunlight of knowledge, as the Wright machine flies above the dull, out-of-date king.

Little Bobbie's Pa

By WILLIAM F. KIRK

WHEN Pa left the house to go to the office yesterday, Ma asked him to be sure & read the Hot Weather Hints which a grate doctor had published in yesterday's paper, one of the hints was Don't Drink Alkyholick Drinks, Ma had drew two (2) lines under that Hint with a pencil.

Pa looked at the paiper a minuit & then he jest sniffed & turned up his nose. They make me tired, all these doctors, sed Pa, with their Do this & Dont Do That. I can't see any reason for doing anything I don't want to do, sed Pa, & I have made up a list of Hot Weather Rules of my own.

Pa read his list to Ma, this is what he said:

1 Dont drink hot drinks on a hot day, such as tea, coffee, hot milk or cocoa.

2 Dont work too hard out in the hot sun. If you are a shoveler, go & shovel malt in a brewery. If you are not a shoveler, go to the brewery & watch them shovveling malt.

3 Dont wear moar than one sweater on a torrid day, and above all things, do not wear a red necktie.

4 Do not argue with yure wife on a day like this. Let her have her say until the cool of the eveuing, then get after her & show her who is captain.

5 Dont be bashful about cool drinks. Drink all the mixed drinks in the Guide Book, & swallow the ice. Peopul should never let their spirits run low on a hot day.

6 If you must go anywhere on a hot day, go to Deer Island, some of our warmest members are cooling off there.

7 If you like fat meat & other greasy food, eat it. Plenty of blubber will make you imagine you are a Eskimo.

8 Dont fergit Rule 6, about drinking.

Now, sed Pa, after he had fuished read ing about his new rules, I am going down town for the day, & I am going to these rules into effeck. I am going show the peepul of this city & the pe of the world at large that a grate has arisen, to explode a shutter all t fool theories about hot wether hab Within twenty-four hours the world be ringing with my name. I guess sed Ma, moar likely the ambulnace will be ringing my door bell.

Don't you ever beleeve it, sed P know what I know. Then Pa went to the offis.

At six (6) o'clock last nite thay bro my Pa hoam. Four (4) men was le him & thay was puffing ice on his he he was talking all the time & his was sticking out of his face.

For hevin's sake, sed Ma, what in world is the matter? Dount faint, sed one of the men, yure husband wil all rite soon, his mind is only tempora deranged with the heat, when we fo him he was running around the horse tcold us he was chasing a horse-dy. this ice on his hed, sed the man, & he be all rite in a litrel while. Then the went away.

Well, sed Ma, how are all the hot we rules with wich you was going to sta the world?

Oh, look! sed Pa, see the pickerel sw ming near the bottom of the lake. pickerel, sed Pa, how do perspires! the moon was nevver so shivery as to sed Pa.

Ma kep putting ice on Pa's hed & a litrel while he got over beeing crazy the heat.

LETTERS FROM AMERICAN READERS

WORK FOR MISSIONARIES

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

While the Elsie Sigel case is being forgotten, let me bring to light a subject which I hope some kind reader will be able to explain. Elsie Sigel was a missionary worker, and it is this I am referring to.

Why do these young white women try to christianize a Chinese? The Chinese never as yet, proved to be true Christians and no human power can ever make them Christians. So why are these young women striving in vain and struggling with fate when they know that their work is not being appreciated?

There are thousands of born Christians in this great city who are tearing away from the hands of Christianity, because they have no one to urge them to go along the straight path. Why don't the missionary workers come unto these downfallen Christians and try to uphold their faith by preaching to them the religion in which they were born?

GEORGE J. JACOBSEN.

WANTS STAMPS HANDY.

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

Public men, politicians and reformers go around with plans up in their sleeves for the improvement of Boston. The Boston 1915 Committee is employing a staff of high-salaried workers to formulate schemes for the betterment of our city, but in the speculation of accomplishing things for our city, the smaller improvements are overlooked. Will these men unit a suggestion, of a layman, for the commodation of the public?

The installation of "Postage Stamp Slot Machines," such as they have now in the North Station of the Boston & Maine in every drug store in the city would be a great boon to the public. Here is a scheme which can be made to bear fruit suits in the saving of time and facilitat of business.

LAUGH? YOU BET!

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

As a daily reader of your newsy pa I wish to voice a kind word, also opinion of myself and many others garding certain parts of your very inter ing and laughable pictorial pages.

For instance, the Hall-Room B They are certainly very amusing and play a gifted talent on the part of artist. Then again our old friend M Others may copy, but cannot equal. what must be said about the Dennett soap plutocrat, John Wiggins. A man woman who could put aside the AME CAN before retiring for the night wi out a jolly good laugh at these comi tions, should go out in the tall grass count the stars as a penance.

AINT IT TOUGH WHEN YOU'RE ASKED TO KEEP YOUR NEIGHBOR'S DOG FOR A FEW DAYS
AND THE DOG STARTS IN BY CHEWING UP YOUR NEW SLIPPERS
AND SCARING THE LIFE OUT OF YOUR CHICKENS
AND NOT ONLY THAT BUT-YOU CAN HAVE THAT DOG IF YOU WANT HIM!
YOUR NEIGHBOR WANTS TO MAKE YOU A PRESENT OF HIM!
